command of and manage its militia force. At Southold the Fanning party had the management of the legal organizations, the appointments and ordering of elections. At a company election, Thomas Fanning, a brother of Edmund and Phineas, was appointed to give notice of it and to preside. He had his son-in-law appointed 1st lieutenant, and his son 2d lieutenant; neither of these expected to oppose the King's government. Another organization supported Congress. Minute men, selected from the militia, were required to keep their arms with them, and to assemble at a minute's warning for active service. The company of minute men from this town of Southold, near the east end of L. I., under Capt. Jonathan Bailey (a neighbor of L'Hommedieu, who had signed to support Congress) was prompt enough to march, in July, 1778, the whole length of the Island (with one field piece), and to get inside the lines at Brooklyn, and with other minute men under Col. Josiah Smith take their share in the battle of L. I., in August, while nearly all the rest of L. I. force were stopped by orders or by their officers, professedly to take care of the Island, and to drive away cattle so as not to furnish supplies for the British army at Flat-bush.

[In my boyhood I conversed with the survivors of this military band from Southold, and heard some of them testify on oath to their history.] All this activity at Southold in 1778 reflects in some degree upon Mr. L'Hommedieu—showing his attention and energy. We have occasional glimpses of his individual action, but no connected account. He was decided and active; but not noisy nor obtrusive.

No doubt upon his recommendation Daniel Griffing—his neighbor and schoolmate at Southold, grandson of Jasper, who lived near the harbor, on the "town-harbor lane"—was appointed a captain; and he served, a steady and reliable officer, through the Revolutionary war in the Continental Army. Ambrose Horton, another captain, would be in like manner recommended; also Joseph Horton, an ensign, and Wm. Havens, of Shelter Island, a lieutenant. These were all family connections. Barnabas Tuthill, appointed Major, was more distantly connected, and did not stay in the service long. Christopher Younge, bearing the ancient and distinctive family name of the Southold Younge family, having a father and grandfather of the same name, both then living, entered the army among the first, fought his way with it, and at the close of the war, in 1783, was honorably discharged a captain. The eastern Long Island troops—raised for Continental service—were not sufficient at first to form a regiment, and two companies of them were attached to the Dutchmen of Ulster county. James Clinton was their Colonel, afterwards General, the father of De Witt. By repute they had even some of the descendants of the old Pensionary Dewitt of Holland in the same regiment. Two other companies with Major Tuthill were attached to the so-called Dutchess County Regiment.

Since our great civil war we are better able to understand all these arrangements. Most of those who had signed to support Congress, after the battle of L. I., promptly removed from L. I. to Connecticut, and many of them entered the Continental service. Some, especially the more aged, lacking the means of support in Connecticut, returned to their farms on L. I. The Convention aided this removal to Connecticut. Mr. L'Hommedieu, absent from home, had his family and goods removed. He attended and acted upon the committees of the Convention or Congress. One of the Griffing family—his neighbors down the lane—quietly guarded and protected his house and land. He owned slaves, but did not hesitate on that account; although the disorders as well as the principles of the Revolution "loosened the hands of the slave." He had been a loan officer for his county, and having some public money in hand, he deposited the same with the new Treasurer appointed by the Convention, and had a vote agreeing to indemnify him for so doing. We must leave to another occasion all criticisms of his votes and acts as a legislator. He assisted to form and adopt the first constitution of our State. From 1777 to 1783 he was a member of Assembly under that constitution. In 1779, 1781, and 1783 he was elected for three times a member of the Continental Congress. From 1784 to 1809 he was a member of our State Senate (except in 1793), and once a member of the Council of Appointment; he held, also, some minor offices, such as County Clerk. In 1787 he was chosen a Regent of our State University. This position he held until his death, which occurred on 28th September, 1811. While he was in these public places we all know what was accomplished, and can read the record of his votes. The great occasions were such as to leave the individual much out of view. He did not claim to be an orator, nor put himself forward for public notice. He was naturally, on some topics, the supporter of John Jay, the more eminent descendant of a Huguenot. Mr. Hammond ranks him afterwards in politics as a Federalist. His Senatorial district would elect a Republican whom he was not a candidate, but not over him. He too often followed his own views to be relied on or be popular as a party-man. He pushed forward his brother-in-law, Floyd, in preference to himself for political positions; his friend, John Stoss Hobart, also. The latter became a Judge. It is probable Mr. L'Hommedieu did not covet higher positions than he held, or judicial office. Perhaps, in the heated collisions which he encountered, he deemed himself not supplied with the requisite calmness for the judicial bench. Party struggles were severe, so that neither the contemporary criticisms of opponents, nor the general praise of adherents and friends, are a safe reliance. The office of critic has yet to be filled.

We may easily learn his style as a writer and his course as a citizen. After laying aside the cares of office he turned his attention to repair the wastes of the long and terrible war. We can read his communications on agricultural subjects, published in the transactions of the first agricultural society of the State. They embraced the manner of taking fish for manure; of making ditches and hedges for enclosures; of folding sheep, and raising calves for stock, and clover for pasture, or the like. Information on such topics was greatly needed by the farmers who turned their swords into ploughshares. It is hard now to imagine so great a want of it. But these brief and practical essays are sufficient to give us an idea of the country gentleman (the writer of them) which we all can comprehend.

Disregarding the critics, we can rely upon the general character for intelligence and private worth which he left, and upon the record of his votes and acts. These are imperishable. Looking at these he could safely say: "Exegi monumentum, aere perennium," and to us, "Excelior."

He lived in Southold village, next to the Rev. John Storrs, a graduate of Yale, who was settled there, but acted as chaplain during the war. His favored student was Thomas Storrs Lester (son of Silvester Lester), who became his active executor and successor in public honors.

NOTES ON THE GRAVEYARDS OF LONG ISLAND.

[Contributed by H. R. STILES, M.D.]

TOMBSTONE INSCRIPTIONS FROM THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHYARD OF SOUTHOLD.

To the antiquarian, and indeed to every thoughtful and reverent mind, the graveyards of old towns are deeply full of interest and of "food for contemplation." And this remark is peculiarly true of the ancient burial-place connected with the Presbyterian church of Southold. We spent in this place all the leisure time we could command while in the village, and would like to jot down for the edification of your readers, if they will permit, a few of the most remarkable and quaint inscriptions which we have transferred to our memorandum book. First of all, as in duty bound, we paid our respects to the grave of the first pastor, which is as follows:—

"Mr. John Youngs, Minister of the Word and first settler of the Church of Christ in Southold, on Long Island; deceased the 24 of February, in the year of our Lord 1871-2, and of his age 74.

Here lies the man whose doctrine, life well-known,
 Did shew he sought Christ's honor, not his own,
 In weakness sown, in power rais'd shall be,
 By Christ from death to life eternally."

This inscription was re-cut in 1857 by some of his descendants. It would otherwise have been, at this time, illegible.

"Here lies ye body of William Wells of South-Hold, Gent. Justice of ye Peace & first Sheriff of New Yorks Shire vpon Long Island, who departed this life November 18th, 1671, aged 63.

Yea, here hee lies, who speaketh yet though dead,
 On wings of faith his soule to Heaven is fled,
 His pious deeds and charity was such
 That of his praise no pen could write too much.
 As was his life so was his blest decease,
 He liv'd in love, and sweetly dy'd in peace."

"In memory of the Rev. Mr. William Throop who departed this life, September 20, A. D. 1736 aged 34 years and 3 months."

Mr. Throop was the 5th pastor of this church.

"In memory of Philemon Dickerson or Dickinson who with his brother Nathaniel and John Dickinson emigrated from England, and landed in Massachusetts in 1638. He was admitted a freeman of the town of Salem, in 1641, and removed to Southold in 1673 aged about 74 years, leaving two sons, Thomas and Peter.

Thomas left four sons Thomas, Joshua, Daniel, and Peter, all of whom removed to Morris, N. J., about 1745."

From these sons the Dickersons of New Jersey are descended, including the Hon. Mahlon Dickerson, once Secretary of the Navy of the U. S., who caused this very neat monument to be erected to his ancestors.

"The remains of Mrs. Eunice Storms, daughter of ye Honorable Shubl. Conant, Esq., of Mansfield, and wife to ye Rev'd John Storms, pastor of ye first Church of Christ in Southold, who died March 27, A. D. 1767, aged 81 years."

This Rev. John Storms was the sixth pastor of the Southold Church.

"To the blessed memory of Mrs. Mary Hobart, born at Boston, who after she had served in her own age, by the will of God, fell on sleepe in this place, the 10th of April, 1688, aged 66 years, 1 month.

Desir'd she lived, lamented she died,
 Dyed yet still lives, she lives in precious memory."

Next to Mrs. Hobart's monument stands one of freestone, of large size, but without inscription—the tablet which bore it, and which was inserted on its

He was long known and respected, as the Chaplain of the City Prisons, having commenced his labors in this field in 1807, though not receiving any formal appointment or remuneration until the year 1812. He died at his residence in Lispenard street, in this city, on 14 January, 1834, in his 80th year. His son, Thomas N. Stanford, was long connected with the well known publishing house of Swords, Stanford & Co., and later, Stanford & Sworia. NEW YORKER.

STRELMAN.—Jan Hendricksen Steelman sold to Jacobus Becker, on March 17, 1655, house and lot in New Amsterdam, being northward of Fort Amsterdam and the Heavers' Path, on the North River, being the same premises assigned to him December 3, 1654, by Pieter Stoutenburgh.

On the 8th of May, 1660, Jan Hendrick Steelman mortgaged his Bowerie at Borewyck, Long Island, unto Timothy Galry.

Can any one give me further information of this Steelman? Was he a Swede, and did he soon after this date remove to Gloucester County, New Jersey? BTAGO.

WILCOXSON.—I want information of the family of "William Wilcoxson, Lynen Weaver," who, with his wife Margaret and son John, emigrated from St. Albans, Hert. Eng., in 1635 to Conn. (N. E. His. and Gen. Reg., vol. 14, p. 304, and Savage's Dia.) He died at Stratford, 1653. His widow, Margaret, m. Wm. Hayden of Windsor, Conn., Emigrant. Savage supposes him to have had 9 children, and numbers among them Elizabeth, who m. Henry Stiles (Stiles' Windsor); Hannah, who m. Daniel Hayden, son of Wm.; Sarah, who m. Jas Meigs, and Phebe, who m. Jas Birdseye. Is Savage correct in his record of this family, and can any of your readers add to it? HAYDEN.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

GENEALOGIES, BIOGRAPHIES, LOCAL HISTORIES IN PREPARATION.

Andrews.—A genealogy of the descendants of John Andrews, from 1640 to 1871, will be issued during the present year, by Mr. Alfred Andrews, of New Britain, Conn.

Barrus, Hiram.—Mr. Hiram Barrus, of Reading, Mass., has in manuscript some notes regarding his ancestry bearing the names above.

Bowen—Story—Martin.—Isaac Story, Esq., of Boston, is engaged upon a genealogy of the descendants of Richard and Ann Bowen, of Roboboth, N. I. Also, upon genealogies of the Story and Martin families.

Fletcher.—Mr. Edward H. Fletcher, of this city, has in preparation a History of the Descendants of Robert Fletcher, who came from England, and settled in Concord, Mass., in 1630.

Handy.—The Rev. Dr. Isaac W. K. Handy has been engaged for the last twenty years in collecting materials for a genealogy of his family, and the work, which was retarded by the late civil war, is now nearly ready for the press. The family is traced from Samuel Handy, a native of England, who settled in Somerset County, Maryland, at an early period, and died there in 1731. Dr. Handy calls his work the "Annals and Memorials of the Handys and their kindred; embracing notices Chronological, Biographical, and Historical—together with full Genealogical Records of the Handys, Winders, Daahells, Gillmans, Irvings, Kerns, Henrys, Polks, Wilsons, Harrises, Bayanis, Wateres, Wallaces, Chailles, Russells, Browns, Colemans, and other cognate Families in the United States." His address is Mt. Sidney, Augusta Co., Virginia.

Newcomb.—Mr. John B. Newcomb, of Elgin, Kane Co., Ill., has issued a circular (No. 2) asking for additional information concerning the family, especially "of the latter generations—the records chiefly of the past hundred years." The genealogy upon which he has been so many years engaged, is announced for publication during the present year, and—as the edition must needs be limited—persons desiring the work are requested to give immediate notice.

Phelps.—A miniature two-page genealogy of the ancestry of Frank Phelps, son of Oliver S. Phelps, of Portland, Oregon, was issued on the 1st of Dec. 1870, as a souvenir of the lad's tenth birth-day anniversary. Frank is ninth from William Phelps, the emigrant of Dorchester, Mass., and Windsor, Conn.

Rimmels, 1700-45.—A genealogy of the descendants of Samuel Rimmels, of Bradford, Mass., is in preparation by Rev. Moses F. Rimmels, of Sanbornston, N. H.

Taney.—Jonathan Taney of Oswego, Tioga Co., N. Y., has in preparation, and nearly completed, genealogical memoirs of the Taney Family. He has also collected many genealogical and biographical notes and papers concerning the Bayley, Crane, Bachelder, Pettigill, Reed, and Le Gru families.

Woodward.—H. B. Stiles, M.D. (P. O. Box 58), Brooklyn, N. Y., would be obliged for any genealogical information concerning the Woodwards, of Lebanon, and of Sharon, Conn., or of Warren Co., N. Y.

Cortez.—Mr. Arthur Helps has a Biography of Hernando Cortez in press. It is dedicated to Carlyle.

Hopkins and Mahan.—The Rev. John Henry Hopkins, the former editor of the Church Journal of this city, but now residing in Burlington, Vt., is engaged in editing the unpublished works of his father, the late Bishop Hopkins. We understand the papers and writings of the late Rev. Milo Mahan, D.D., of Baltimore, have also been placed under Mr. Hopkins' supervision for publication.

Mason.—Mr. George S. Hillard is said to be engaged in writing the life of that once distinguished Boston lawyer, Jeremiah Mason.

Mason.—A life of Captain John Mason, Patentee of New Hampshire, Vice-Admiral of New England, and Governor of Newfoundland, is in preparation by Charles W. Tuttle, Esq., of Boston.

McClellan.—"In memoriam, K. M." An elegant privately printed volume of 79 pages, small quarto, preserves the memory of Kate McClellan, only daughter of Dr. G. R. and Eliza M. McClellan, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who was born at Brooklyn, July 30, 1843, and died August 5, 1869.

Penn Papers.—The Pennsylvania Historical Society have just concluded with the Penn family in England the purchase of the papers of William Penn.

Raymond.—The life of Henry J. Raymond, by S. B. Conant, is nearly ready for publication.

Taylor.—A memorial volume of Samuel H. Taylor, D.D., the late lamented Principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., with a photographic likeness, will be published next month by W. F. Draper, Andover. Subscription price $1.75.

Ticknor.—Mr. George S. Hillard proposes to write a memoir of his late friend, George Ticknor.

New York.—Messrs. Harper Brothers announce the Second Volume of the History of New York, by John Romeyn Brodhead, LL.D., as being nearly ready for issue. In this volume, we believe, Mr. Brodhead continues his interesting history to and including the government of Leisler.

Rochester, N. Y.—Rev. F. DeW. Ward, of Genesee, N. Y., is preparing an Ecclesiastical History of Rochester.

Warren, N. H.—William Little, Esq., of Manchester, N. H., has written a history of Warren, N. H. It contains about 600 pages, and is illustrated with woodcuts and photographs, and an occasional lithograph and steel plate, to the full number of thirty or more.

OBITUARY.

DAVID RICHARD FLOYD JONES.

THIS representative of two old L. I. families (in the eldest male line), born 6 April, 1813, on the ancestral place at South Oyster Bay, died there on 9 January, 1871, in his 58th year. He was the eldest son of Thomas Floyd Jones, and Cornelia (Jones) his wife; gr.-son of David R. Floyd Jones, and Sarah (Onderdonk) his wife; and great grand-son of the 4th Richard Floyd (b. 1731, d. 1792), who married Arabella Jones, dau. of Judge David Jones (the first judge of many in the family); they and their children taking the name of Floyd Jones as a condition of holding a large tract of land on L. I. under the Judge's will.

After such preparation, as could be made on L. I., he entered Union College in 1828, and graduated in 1832. He studied law with his mother's brother, the late Judge Samuel W. Jones, of Schenectady; was admitted to the bar in 1833; and practiced for about five years in N. Y. City. In the fall of 1840 he was elected to the Assembly from N. Y., and re-elected in 1841 and 1842. In the fall of 1843 he was elected to the Senate from the First Senatorial District for four years, his elec-

THE VAIL FAMILY.

[Contributed by C. R. MOORE, Esq.]

MR. ALFRED VAIL, the genealogist, of Morristown, N. J., b. 1807, by his own account, was a son of Stephen Vail, b. 1780, and Bethea Youngs, his 1st wife, a grandson of Davis Vail, b. 1756, and Hannah Moore his wife, a great-grandson of Thomas Vail, b. 1720, and Sarah Davis his wife, and a great-great-grandson of John Vail, b. 1685, and Martha Fitz Randolph his wife.

Of John's father he had not the Christian name; but John's mother, named Elizabeth, b. 1657, married a 2d husband, — Gach, and a 3d husband, John Griffith, and she d. in 1747. This known ancestor John Vail had brothers, Samuel, the eldest, Arthur and Thomas; and sisters, Martha and Mary. He removed from Westchester Co., when young, to Woodbridge, N. J., became a preacher among the Friends, and died there in 1774, leaving a large family of children.

Mr. Alfred Vail learning this about his immediate progenitors, endeavored to find the ancestry, and to trace the descendants of John. He wrote letters for information, got copies of wills and registries, and became earnest and energetic in his inquiries.

Presently, dividing the Vails into classes from localities, he sought to trace all of the name. He found the labor of writing and answering numerous letters burdensome. Persons to whom he wrote, if they answered at all, often sought more information than they gave. In 1852 he sent out a printed circular, asking 36 questions, very detailed and specific. The 35th was, "what is the common tradition in regard to your remote ancestors?" and the 36th—the best one—was a very full inquiry for records, deeds, wills, and documents. In 1854 he sent another circular, called his 3d Edition, in which he reduced the questions to 19, deemed by him necessary to complete the account of a single family, father, mother, etc. He continued afterwards to send this form. It had no date. In that year he sent also his own pedigree so far as ascertained, and a long printed circular explaining his plan and course. He also printed and circulated, gratis, copies of the earliest wills found, and extracts from records. This was very neatly done, and was attractive and useful.

Doubtless he received in return a mass of ill-digested reports, crudely gathered and not very reliable, but which, by careful arrangement and system, might prove valuable. It was his part to do this, but his work was never completed. His health failed. His family and friends found him so earnest and enthusiastic that they took him to be a monomaniac. He was obliged to desist, and presently died. Of his gatherings we have no further the edict of Henry IV which had confirmed the protestants in the full exercise of their religious tenets, and continued ever since that time. This measure in his revocal of this Edict which had secured ever since the time of Henry IV the protestants in France in the full exercise of their religion was allowed and considered at once very arbitrary and very extremely inopportune, since scarcely any inconvenience had arisen in this time nearly a Century from the privileges enjoyed by the protestants under it.

It had been considered irrevocable; therefore the greatest obstinacy of these religionists as is usual, now arose in proportion to the severity with which they were persecuted and threatened. Previous to this Edict of Henry IV which was passed in the year of 1598, and called the Edict of France [Nantes] great had been the sufferings of the protestants; for in the year 1572 in one night at St. Bartholomew's [i. e., on St. Bartholomew's eve] 80,000 was massacred among whom was Admiral Coligny. The Prince of Condé [Condé] was at the head of the protestants The Duke of Guise of the Catholics; that in about one Century 1,000,000 suffered.—In the course of the persecution which ensued the revocal of this Edict by which the liberty of conscience and the full exercise of their religion was denied to the protestants about 500,000 persons were forced to seek refuge in different parts of Europe, who preferred their liberty of conscience to their Country; about 50,000 of whom sought their safety in Great Britain with liberty of conscience, where they were received by James II who is known by the name of the Duke of York; who openly aided them with money and protected them as protestant refugees with his power; admitting of them without any expense to the privileges of English subjects.¹ Mr. Lestrango and his wife with Mr. Gabriel Hubert and others their neighbours and acquaintances were among those who were notorious to the Roman Catholics and Jesuits [Jesuits] from their great and [illegible] adherence to their protestant religious tenets; and therefore among those who were constrained to seek safety and take refuge in England from the cruelties practiced in the persecution, by death-tortures—exclusion from sleep—confiscation &c &c &c

Mr. Lestrango and Mr. Hubert in their having sought their safety and relief, retired to the City of London in England where were some of their mercantile correspondents, to whom they introduced themselves; and Mr. Lestrango procured for himself a Lieutenantcy in the guards of King James II, and Mr. Hubert resided in the City of London and went into business in the Mercantile line.

Mr. Lestrango and Mr. Hubert in having so escaped had left all of their property in France; and Mr. Lestrango had also left his wife Mrs. Lestrango with one child (a son) of about one year old exposed to the prevailing fury of the times, and to the rage and fury of the Roman Catholics and Jesuits; the property of Mr. Lestrango and Mr. Hubert was confiscated and Mrs. Lestrango being thereby divested of it, she soon became destitute in a great measure of all support and subsistence and nearly suffering through the malice of the Catholics and Jesuits.—Under these circumstances, Mrs. Lestrango was constrained in the course of a year to attempt her escape also, and to seek her husband and brother through the extreme sufferings to which she was exposed to—for subsistence and necessaries of life; this she effected after many and repeated attempts by applications made to the guards of the City for a permission to go out of the same into the suburbs of the City with a view of procuring of such necessaries as those of wood—Meat Bread—Water &c &c &c—the three latter of which were frequently refused of which she was, and then very often experiencing of the greatest wants. This liberty being refused to her upon several and repeated solicitations and applications, made in the most submissive terms backed with the most pressing urgency painted. (sic) She finally urged by necessity and hunger &c &c &c which not only now, but generally proves the parent of all inventions, was reduced to the necessity again to attempt a repetition of her applications to the guards with all the most feeling urgency, and to propose to deposit her child a son of about two years old with the guards as a pledge for her return.—The escape of the protestants was most narrowly watched and prevented under the most strict, rigid and attentive orders.

This proposition was at length listened too by the officer of the guards upon such her most ardent and pressing entreaty, and accepted of and embraced, when she was permitted to pass through the gate of the City upon her so depositing of her child to the care and custody of the guard; and so she effected her warmest and most anxious purpose under the pretence of passing only into the suburbs of the City and for the assigned purposes.

She having by this means effected her escape did immediately proceed to England in the pursuit of her husband and brother, and having come to the city of London, and entering the City was passing through a street when she was observed by some Gentlemen from an upper loft of a dwelling house—and being recognized as a french Woman, and also supposed to be a refugee, they addressed her by an enquiry from where she was—her business—her name and her wishes &c &c &c—when they learned from her that she was a french refugee, and that she was in the search of her husband and brother and who they were &c &c &c. She was then thereupon invited to come into the house, when she was soon made acquainted with the Gentlemen, and that they were acquainted with her husband and brother, and that she should be conducted to them; that her husband was in the guards of the king and that her brother was in the City, and she was conducted to her husband by the Gentleman. Mr. Lestrango shortly after was from the extended benevolence and bounty of the English government enabled to settle himself in the City of London where he resided and remained sometime; he continuing in the Guards until about the year 1688 when he having disposed of his commission was enabled thereby to aid himself and did embark with a number of other protestants refugees his associates, many of whom were his acquaintances for America, and arriving there landed at the City of New York in the course of the year 1688 with his wife and one son or more children, with a large number of those his associates french refugees. Mr. Lestrango now in Company with many of those his associates french refugees and acquaintances proceeded to New Rochelle in the County of Westchester where they making of a settlement did settle themselves in their different and respective professions and callings of life, as Merchants Physicians farmers Mechanicks &c. &c. &c.

Mr. Lestrango having procured for his use a farm of new lands and a lot in the Village as named he commenced a grazer and farmer—Among those of Mr. Lestrango intimate friends and associates and who accompanied each other to New York and from thence to New Rochelle was the family of the 1, Besley (sic)—known by the name of Bayley (the English doctor called) ✓ jury and assize rolls, the judgment rolls of the Courts of Queen's Bench and Common Pleas, which contain the general proceedings in causes between individuals, as well as the proceedings in disputes with the Crown, indictments, informations and similar proceedings to which parties were called upon to plead. (a) From the suits, bills and answers, and depositions in the Courts of Chancery, Exchequer, Star Chamber and Court of Requests, a boundless store of biographical data may be gleaned; for these are proceedings in equity between subject and subject, or they are upon informations in the name of the Attorney-General on behalf of the Sovereign.

Then again, the special classes of records which affect the transfer of landed property, the finés and recoveries, and deeds of bargain and sale help to complete a history of every estate in the kingdom and of every family possessed of any real property from the 13th century downwards. The indentures of finés, which are arranged in counties, are in a wonderful state of preservation: in the majority of instances, the hand-writing of the scribe compiling the instrument, in the earlier periods, is as bright, clear and legible, as though it were from his pen but yesterday.

The archæologist and antiquarian have happily within reach a primer or preparatory publication if they resolve to investigate and master, in their own person, the textual difficulties of the early records of the English realm. In the general introduction to the Close Rolls, a series belonging to the enrollments of the Court of Chancery, commencing A.D. 1204, on which are recorded all mandates, letters, and writs of a private nature, the student, with a fair knowledge of the Latin and French languages, is enabled to commence his education as a record explorer. The volume to which this introduction is appended is a printed edition of a transcript of the Close Rolls from the year 1204 to 1224. It was edited by the present deputy-keeper of the public records, Sir T. Duffus Hardy. Its value is above impeachment. It is a mine of information. And, besides the copious illustrative and explanatory introduction, full of recondite learning, it is supplied with a table of abbreviations, used in the records, of exact and acknowledged value. Every enquirer should learn this table by heart, and will find himself provided with as necessary a weapon as the axe is to the pioneer in a primeval forest.

The Close Rolls are of infinite variety and importance, both in a public and private point of view. They illustrate, in an eminent degree, the policy and history as well of foreign nations as of England, in the 13th, 14th and 15th centuries; the biography of the princes and other illustrious personages of the times; and elucidate the laws, particular and general, the prerogative, the power and influence of the clergy and nobility, and the relative condition of the people, as well morally as politically. Sir Thomas Hardy in his introduction gives the following enumeration of subjects to present an idea of their miscellaneous nature and importance. "In reference to the king and his royal rights and authority, may be included articles concerning the royal prerogative, crown revenue, deodands, treasure trove, gold and silver mines, donations regis, fines for transgressions, royal parks and forests, magna charta, the charter of the forest, the royalties of hunting and hawking, economy of the royal household, royal marriages, robes and dresses, jewels, coins, queen's gold, tournaments, levying of armies, king's messengers, naval and military affairs, homage, fealty, knight's service, aids and marriages, duels, bail and pardons, protections, truces, public and private letters to the king upon state affairs, scutage, tallage, livery of lands, assignments of dower, royal presents to distinguished individuals. Connected with the courts of law will be found matters relating to politics and laws, the Chancellor of England, deliveries of the great seal, jurisdiction of the Courts of Chancery, King's Bench and Exchequer, wardship of minors, custody of idiots and lunatics, appointments of justices to the peace, escheators and coroners, the Privy Council, &c., &c. Under ecclesiastical affairs, the subjects of divorce, adultery, alimony, prayers, Masses, Papal bulls, knights hospitallers and templars, will occur. In illustration of the progress of trades and manufactures, various entries will be found respecting repairs of palaces, public buildings and bridges, &c., the arts, pictures, painting, costume," &c.

(a) Here, too, are enrolled petitions and proceedings in parliament, occasionally, pleadings before the king and his council, illustrations of the laws, the public history and the customs of the country, the liberties and privileges of corporations, towns, and villages,—the measures of land and the jurisdiction of the Ecclesiastical and other inferior Courts from the time of Richard I. A. D. 1189—nearly seven centuries ago.

But my very slight sketch must draw to a close.

I hope it will be understood that in this rapid indication of some of the more prominent classes of the English public records to which the genealogist should first turn his attention, I have not even attempted to do much towards making anything like a survey of the extent and value of these stores upon stores of information. Even their very bulk is astonishing. The classes are so numerous, their branches, arteries, and lesser streams so abounding, and their contents of such varied and inexhaustible interest that one might as well endeavour, in a brief notice, to treat upon the treasures and arcana of the largest public library in the world.

GENEALOGICAL NOTATION.

By DAVID PARSONS HOLTON, M. D.

In vol. 1, p. 29, of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record may be seen a system of notation of pedigrees adapted to American Genealogies, as proposed by Dr. Holton.

In the first section of this system of notation, small capitals A, B, C, D, E, F, etc., are placed above and to the right of the name, as indices in trans-oceanic generations, commencing with the father of the first immigrants of the American family.

In the second section, the members of the American series are indicated by numeral indices, commencing with the immigrant children of the father; thence by Arabic figures, progressively increasing, to show the successive generations down to the present.

In cases where, as yet, the line is not traceable back to the first immigrant, we use small letters of the alphabet, indexing the earliest known ancestor as a, and the successive generations by the serial letters, b, c, d, e, f, etc., to the youngest born.

In case we subsequently extend our genealogical discoveries, each generation ascending is marked by affixing to the a regularly increasing numerals: a, a', a'', a''', etc., upward toward the ascertained immigrant.

ILLUSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM.

For illustration, let us take Phillip^a Parsons, who was in Enfield, Conn., in 1697; whose ancestry we are yet (1872) unable to discover; while we have on our Memorial Records thousands of his descendants. Hence, for the present, we adopt the following mode of notation for said Phillip Parsons and his descendants:

- Phillip^a Parsons, of Enfield, Conn., was there in..... 1697
- Nathaniel^b Parsons, born in Enfield, Conn..... 1703-10
- Shubael^c Parsons, died in Enfield, Conn..... 1819
- Eben^d Parsons, died in Enfield, Conn..... 1844
- Dr. Edward Field^e Parsons, resides in Enfield, Conn..... 1872
- His son, Edward Field^f Parsons, resides at Enfield, Conn..... 1873

Search is still continued for the ancestral line of this Phillip^a.

Should we discover his father, a', we shall designate him as a'; should we later find his grandfather, a'', as of America, he will be a''; unless this last be the immigrant, when he will receive the unit index; and his descendants will then be re-indexed with numerals, as in second section.

The first section in this system of pedigree includes any father, having left the Eastern Continent and having died upon the voyage, his children reaching America. He would, therefore, be pedigreed a, as of the first section; while his children, if any settled in America, would be pedigreed (1), as of the second section.

The illustration of the System may be more fully understood by adding the following:

Edward-Field^f, Dr. Edward Field^e, Eben^d, Shubael^c, Nathaniel^b, Phillip^a. It is traditionally believed that this Phillip^a was a grandson of Deacon Benjamin¹ Parsons, of Springfield, Mass., the immigrant ancestor.

Should this tradition be proved to be true, then the pedigree will run thus:

- Edward Field^f Parsons, residing at Enfield, Conn..... 1873
- Dr. Edward Field^e Parsons, residing at Enfield, Conn..... 1872
- Eben^d Parsons, died in Enfield, Conn..... 1844
- Shubael^c Parsons, died in Enfield, Conn..... 1819
- Nathaniel^b Parsons, born in Enfield, Conn..... 1703-10
- Phillip^a Parsons, was living in Enfield, Conn..... 1697

Deacon Benjamin¹ Parsons married at Windsor, Conn., November 6, 1663; resided at Springfield, Mass., and died there August 24, 1689.

LIST OF AMERICAN FAMILIES.

WHOSE GENEALOGIES ARE BEING INVESTIGATED, EITHER IN WHOLE OR IN PART, WITH A VIEW TO PUBLICATION.

NOTE.—Those families, the names of which are intended to be published as separate genealogies, are designated by SMALL CAPITALS. Those which are fragmentary in character, or have been incidentally gathered in the course of other genealogical investigation, are indicated by italics. Some of the latter will, doubtless, be ultimately expanded into separate treatises. Where the address of the compiler is not given, apply to the Publication Committee.

Any additions or corrections to this list will be gratefully acknowledged by the PUBLICATION COMMITTEE of the RECORD.

under the charge of the Rev. Ebenezer Baldwin, a highly respectable Presbyterian minister. After the death of Mr. Baldwin, in Oct., 1776, he was under different instructors in Danbury, Stratford, and Newtown until he entered Yale College, in New Haven, in September, 1777. Of his standing in College, and of his graduation we have no account, except what he has modestly stated in his letter above referred to.

After his graduation in 1781, he passed a few weeks at Fairfield in Connecticut, to which place his father had removed on his second marriage.

With Mr. Benson, the distinguished jurist, in whose office he commenced and pursued his legal studies, he afterwards became the intimate friend and associate. "Such," we are told, "were his devotion and ardor" in his studies "so rapid his progress in the knowledge he sought to acquire, and so clear the evidence he gave of a superior mind and character, that the distance which usually separates the instructor from the pupil, was in his instance speedily removed, and before the expiration of his clerkship, his master had become his counselor, associate and friend" (s).

Often, in his later years he was wont to recur to this period of his life with peculiar pleasure. He had reason to congratulate himself that his legal training was under the auspices and guidance of one who was the associate and friend of the foremost men of that period in our State—with Jay, Chancellor Livingston, Samuel Jones, Richard Harrison, Gouverneur Morris, George Clinton, Alexander Hamilton, Aaron Burr, Brockholst Livingston, Robert Troup—all of whom he had the good fortune to see and hear in trials and debates at the bar.

In the admirable address delivered by him before the Law Association of the City of New York, in October, 1836, he has preserved some interesting reminiscences of these learned and accomplished men. At the very term at which he was admitted to the Bar, January, 1785, he, for the first time, heard the then youthful Hamilton, to whose transcendent talents he was ever wont to pay his warmest homage, and whose intimate friend and associate, he afterwards became. It was while he was still residing at Poughkeepsie, in 1788, that the Convention assembled there to deliberate and decide on the adoption of the Federal Constitution. During the entire six weeks of its session, he was a daily attendant upon its meetings, and an eye and ear witness to every thing that was said and done. In all the debates Col. Hamilton was the leader, and the soul and spirit of the Convention. In this address the venerable Ex-Chancellor now in his 73d year, looks back over a period of almost half a century, and recalls the scenes and incidents of that remarkable assemblage with a vividness and eloquence truly inspiring.

The "little modest lovely girl of fourteen"—the farmer's daughter—who had so charmed the future chancellor, and whom two years after his admission to the Bar, he married, "without one cent of property," but whose name he has not given in his letter, was Miss Elizabeth (Betsey as her husband was always accustomed to call her) Bailey, a daughter of Capt. John Bailey of Poughkeepsie, the sister of Theodorus, afterwards General Theodorus Bailey, and who subsequently became a United States Senator, and was afterwards Postmaster of the City of New York. She survived her husband after enjoying with him more than three score years of uninterrupted domestic felicity.

(s) Address of Judge Duer before the Judiciary and Bar of New York, April 12, 1844, p. 18.

It was when Judge Kent had been recently raised to the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of our State in the spring of the year 1807, that Joseph Story, then a young lawyer from Salem, Massachusetts, visiting New York, first saw the man whose great admirer and life long friend he afterwards became.

His letters, written on this occasion to a College friend at Cambridge, give some graphic descriptions of his travels. The first relates how the vessel in which he sailed after passing the dangerous strait of Hell Gate, "beating against the wind with a full tide, a heavy breeze, and a high sea running," was finally wrecked on Blackwell's Island, whence they were rescued by a "miserable filthy vile fishing smack." In the second he tells of his rambles about the City. Among other places to which he was attracted his tastes led him to the old Hall, where the Supreme Court was then sitting. "It happened unfortunately," he writes, "to be the conclusion of the term, and the time was consumed by hearing incidental motions upon affidavits in the English form. The Chief Justice Kent, and Judges Thompson and Tomkins were present. They appeared to be young men, compared with the former gravity of our bench. But I am told Kent is at least fifty. His celerity and acuteness struck me immediately. He seems to be a good lawyer and dispatches business with promptitude. A little too much haste and a disposition to interrupt in some measure lessens the pleasure of seeing him. He has a careless manner of sitting which though rather ungraceful was pleasant to me. It seemed to be the ease of a man who felt adequate to the exigencies of his station. On the whole, if he be not a very great man, I am satisfied he is not humble in his acquirements."

On his return from Washington, in the following month, Mr. Story stops again in New York, and again visits Judge Kent's Court and writes:

"The Court have had their sittings after term, for the trial of criminal and civil causes in the City, since my return here, and though I have not heard the abler advocates speak, yet the Bar have, in some degree, passed in review before me. Kent, the Chief Justice, presided with his singular plainness and promptitude; the counsel seem in the habit of very long and elaborate arguments, and diffuse their thoughts over a length of surface which exceeds all reason and all good effect.

The court room is very small and inelegant. It resembles the bar room of a tavern more than the Hall of Justice. The jury, witnesses and spectators are crowded into a narrow space, and it is difficult to say who are the one or the other. The Counsel are not elevated, but stand on the level floor, and talk very much as you and I should, if we were addressing referees. On the whole, the appearance is wholly undignified. A prisoner was tried the other day for forgery, and though the crime is punished with imprisonment to hard labor for life, there was as little bustle as would be in a Justice Court in deciding upon the petty larceny of a pewter spoon. Kent summed up to the Jury in a very short and loose manner, and afterwards in pronouncing sentence on the convict stated the sentence with the celerity of a school-boy repeating his task. I must however tell you that he has the confidence of a great lawyer in all his actions, and is self-poised on his own resources."

Sixteen years afterwards, when this distinguished son of Massachusetts had himself risen to the high and honorable position of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and when the Chancellor had reached the Constitutional age which terminated his Judicial Life, he thus writes him in a friendly letter:

"On your retirement to private life, with the regrets, I trust of all good men, I may perhaps be permitted to indulge in remarks, which considerations of delicacy might ering the gentle admonitions suggested by that period of life, to withdraw as much as possible from public duties and festivities of every kind, and that so long as my life and health were permitted to continue, to confine myself to domestic retirement, and to the studies and pursuits to which I had been accustomed, and which were suitable to that tranquil position.

The ground of that apology not only exists, and you will perceive that the very fact of its having been then assigned has given to it additional and conclusive force.

I am unwilling to take my leave of my brethren of the Bar without respectfully suggesting that the protection, cultivation and influence of the Jurisprudence of our Country is confided to the profession of the law. The security of our civil and political privileges greatly depends upon an enlightened, impartial, honest, prompt and independent administration of justice; and this inestimable blessing depends essentially on the character of the Bar, and they ought and I trust they generally do feel all the responsibilities which such an elevated trust imposes.

Permit me finally to add that in my apprehension the best way to be useful and happy in this life, is to cultivate the domestic affections; to love home, and at the same time to exercise a benevolent disposition towards others; to be temperate and just; to pursue lawful business, whatever it may be, with diligence, firmness and integrity of purpose, and in the perfect belief that honesty is equally binding in the discharge of public as of private trusts; for when public morals are destroyed, public liberty cannot survive. If we are aspiring, we ought not to lose our diffidence; nor if ardent for reforms, we ought not to lose our discretion. We ought to listen to the maxims of experience, and respect the advice and institutions of our ancestors; and above all, we ought to have a constant and grateful sense of the superintending goodness of that Almighty Being whose wisdom shines equally in his works and in his Word, and whose presence is everywhere sustaining and governing the Universe.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, with perfect respect, your ob't servant,
JAMES KENT.

We have heard from his own pen his allusion to his delightful home on Union Square. Here he passed the last years of his life, and here, at the close of the Sabbath day, on the 12th of December, 1847, he expired surrounded by his weeping family. The Courts not only of our own but of sister States, in token of grief and respect, suspended the course of litigation, and paid fitting tributes of condolence for his loss, and eulogies to his memory and worth. The proceedings of the meeting of the Bar of this City on that occasion, and the addresses made, were published at length in the papers of the day, and form a fitting chapter in the closing life of the distinguished jurist.

On the 15th of December his obsequies were solemnized in Calvary Church. The following account appeared in one of the City journals (a) on the morning of the succeeding day:

"The remains of the lamented Chancellor Kent were yesterday removed from No. 26 Union Place to their last resting place, and were followed by an immense procession, consisting of the Judges of our local courts, and leading members of the Bar, &c. About 4 o'clock the coffin was removed and the remains were borne to Calvary Church, corner of East 21st Street and 4th Avenue, where the Rev. Mr. Southard read the funeral service before a vast congregation of sorrowing friends and admirers of the high talents of the deceased.

A very full and effective choir performed in the course of the ceremony, after which the remains were removed, followed by the chief mourners dressed in white badges; his honor, the Mayor and the Corporation—their staffs muffled with crape; the members of the Bar wearing mourning badges; private citizens, and an immense train of carriages, in one of which was noticed General Gaines.

The procession moved down Broadway as far as Bond Street, and attracted a good deal of attention from crowds who had flocked on the sidewalks as it passed along. On reaching Bond Street it passed on through Bowery to the Marble Cemetery in Second Street, where the remains were deposited in the family vault, the Rev. Mr. Southard again reading the services.

After the remains were deposited in the family vault, the immense crowds who had collected dispersed, and all seemed deeply impressed with the solemnity of the services."

In this quiet little cemetery, securely shut in from the busy, passing, restless, surging tide of humanity without, the dead jurist was left to slumber for near a quarter of a century, until his sorrowing wife and his son, and others of his household, had been gathered to his side. Then, pious hands prepared a fitter resting place for him in the retired and beautiful cemetery attached to St. Luke's Church, in the village of Matteawan, in Dutchess County, and thither his remains were brought and subsequently re-interred.

No better description of the spot can be given than is contained in the following extract from a letter of the Rev. Henry E. Duncan, the present Rector of the Church at Matteawan. * * * "It is a quiet burying-ground, near the village, though removed from the bustle and noise of the community, and removed only the fourth of a mile from the foot of the sombre mountains. Our beautiful stone church is only a few rods from his grave, standing in the same enclosure with it, and hallowing the resting place of the faithful dead. The villagers pass on a Sunday morning along the path which conducts by his grave to the north door of the edifice. The spot is retired, planted with evergreens—all that one could wish for a last home when the business of life was ended."

The Chancellor's grave is marked by a large white marble slab resting at the four corners on four upright marble posts. His wife sleeps beneath the same by his side.

The inscription is as follows:

DESTRUCTION OF THE PARISIAN ARCHIVES.—"The destruction of the archives which contained the births, marriages, and deaths of Parisians, has caused embarrassments which greatly perplex the public authorities. These archives contained records of the births, marriages and deaths of Parisians from 1650 to 1869. Statistics show that from 1750 to 1869 (trustworthy statistics go no further back), there were 3,194,993 births, 880,574 marriages, and 3,004,163 deaths in Paris. There were consequently about 7,079,730 individual records in the archives. Despite all the laws passed by the National Assembly, only 87,210 persons have come forward with copies of records, and only 52,339 of the copies they brought have been admitted; 211,000 copies of records have been brought forward by public functionaries.—N. Y. World, March 13.

Dr. Munro was a man of ability and learning, a fine classical scholar, and versed in French, Italian, Hebrew and Erse, while his theological attainments were good. Quick in perception, he took strong views on most subjects, and always acted in accordance with his convictions, though sometimes to his own detriment. In person he was large and well formed, and in his carriage graceful; kind hearted and indulgent to his family; to all he was affable and courteous, though he possessed that natural warmth of temperament which is said to be characteristic of most Caledonians.

He lies interred in the west side of the church yard of St. Cuthbert's Parish, in the City of Edinburgh, and the monument erected to his memory bears the following inscription:

REV. HARRY MUNRO, D. D.
RECTOR OF ST. PETER'S CHURCH, ALBANY, NEW YORK.

Born in 1730.

Died May 30th, 1801.

NOTE.—The above Memoir was written several years ago for private use. With the assent of the writer, portions of it were used by the Rev. Robert Bolton in his "History of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the County of Westchester." A letter to Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan relating to Dr. Munro, written, however, before all the facts regarding him were known to the writer, was inserted by that gentleman in the Documentary History of New York, vol. 4, p. 410. The Memoir is now revised and corrected. It has been prepared from the private family papers of Dr. Munro and his son, Mr. Peter Jay Munro, and the official reports of Dr. Munro to the Propagation Society, and the British war office, and the evidence he adduced before the Commission on Loyalists' Claims, copies of all which he had carefully preserved.

An account of the family of the Munro's, of Fowles, or Fowllis, as it is correctly spelled, which is a long and quaint genealogical history of that family from its origin in the eleventh century, written by Dr. Philip Doddridge, the famous Presbyterian Divine and Author of the first half of the last century, was published by him in 1747, entitled "An Account of Some Remarkable Particulars Concerning the Antient Family of the Munro's of Fowles." It consists of 45 pages 12^{mo}, and forms an appendix to his "Life of Col. Gardiner," and is found also in the large edition of Doddridge's Works. It is one of the earliest professed genealogical histories in print.

Dr. Munro's own account of his branch of the family is as follows:

Munro.—Grandfather Rob' Munro a Surgeon, second son of Alexander laird of Killachoon, whose Father was Robert a Laird, son of the Laird of Tenaird whose Father was Sir Robert Munro of Fowles. Grandmother Anne Munro was the daughter of John Munro Laird of Tenourd and a Surgeon, son of Andrew of Tenourd, who was the son of Sir Robert Munro of Fowles.

N. B. The Munro's of Tenaird are the issue of Sir Robert of Fowles and a first wife.—Those of Tenourd are of Sir Robert of Fowles and a second wife, who was an English woman of Birth.

The Arms borne by Dr. Munro, as shown in his book plate in the writer's possession, are these:—

Shield.—Or, an eagle's head crested gules.

Crest.—An eagle rising, in the beak a branch of laurel, all proper.

Motto.—Dread God.

They are the same as the arms of the present Barenet, but without the supporters (two eagles proper, wings expanded), which, in Scotland, can only be borne by the head of a clan.

The crest differs in having the branch of laurel in the beak of the eagle, which appears only in the arms borne by Dr. Munro's branch of the family.

Barons, in Scotland, does not denote nobility, as in England. When Malcolm II. first divided, or, as the Scotch say, "feu-ed out" the lands of Scotland to the great leaders who assisted him in freeing the country from the Danes, in the eleventh century, there was no nobility in the nation. These lands were erected by the King into baronies which conferred military jurisdiction on the leaders to whom they were given, over their inhabitants. This was the origin of the clans of Scotland, they being the only military force in the Kingdom, until the union with England, under James VI., when regular troops were first introduced into Scotland. The "barony" of Fowles was thus given by Malcolm II. to Donald Munro, in whose descendants it has ever since continued.

The first Baronet was Sir Hector Munro, the twenty-second baron of Fowles, upon whom the dignity was conferred on the 7th June, 1634, for distinguished services and bravery in the service of Gustavus Adolphus in Germany. The genealogy may be found in Doddridge's work, above mentioned, or in any good Peerage and Baronage.

REV. HARRY MUNRO, D. D., born 1730, died 30 May, 1801.

EVE JAY, born 9 Nov., 1728, died Apl. 7th 1810.

They were married 31 March, 1766.

Their only issue was a son:—

I. PETER JAY MUNRO, born Jan^y 10, 1767. He married, 1 Jan^y, 1790, Margaret, daughter of Henry White, of the Governor's Council of New York, and Eve Van Cortlandt, daughter of Frederick Van Cortlandt, of Yonkers, and Frances Jay, his wife. They had issue, twelve children:

at the Battery, and towards the English at the eastward. It may have been the earliest house built by an Englishman in this colony or State, but it is thought not. Hall afterwards had land on Long Island, and he lived until 1670. "Homs" was an Englishman whom we should call "Holmes."

Peter and Jan Montfort had lots in May, 1641, on Manhattan Island, and were probably both Englishmen. A family of that name was in Norfolk County, England, connected by marriage with the Townsends. George Baxter and others had land granted them in August, 1641. Thomas Smith (perhaps the weaver) appeared in New York contracting for a wife in 1641, evidently in peace and harmony with the Dutch. In 1641, "Joris Borrelingen," at Rensselaerwick (now Albany), was called an "Engelsman." "Joris" stood for "George," but what was "Borrelingen" in fair English? Perhaps modern "Bellinger," or ancient "Bellingham." Luke Smith, in 1642, and John Holmes, Abraham Clark, Richard Brigham, Jacob Herrich and Thomas Higgins, all of Rensselaerwick, by their names were plainly Englishmen.

After the Dutch advertisement, the traces of Englishmen around New York City rapidly increased. Richard Smith and John Smith, Henry Field and Richard Denton, John and Henry Townsend, John Lawrence and many other live Englishmen appeared. Several of these were better informed than the mass of Dutchmen, and with such leaders (embracing soldiers and civilians) the English became a decided power in the Dutch State here. John Townsend had eight acres near "the Fresh water" at New York in 1645. [The canal, in modern Canal street, emptied out the fresh water from the "Collect."] In the Dutch records he was called "Jan Tonson"—Monsieur Tonson appears again. The grant to Rev. Mr. Doughty for a settlement in Newtown, L. I., was in 1645.

Much has been said and written about Governor Keiff's requiring an oath of fealty or allegiance to the Dutch Company, or to the States. A paper has been found purporting to be such oath, but without date, and without names that we can trace, except that of Holmes and one or two more. The English names were John Hathaway, Richard Brudenell, Abraham Lowmay, Francis Leslie, Edward Wilson, William Williamson, Abraham Page, Thomas Belcher, Peter Buyley [the three last from "Newheert" in Somersetshire], and Richard Pither, described as an Irishman. It is probable that some or all these were hired soldiers. It was a common course to require such oaths of soldiers and of office-holders. Brudenell was afterwards on Long Island.

English settlers followed up the Dutch very closely. They commenced at Southold and Southampton, on the easterly branches of Long Island, spread westerly, both on the north and on the south sides of Long Island; entered Westchester County, also, from the eastward; crossed the Sound to Long Island in various places, and crossed over south of New York on to Staten Island, and into New Jersey, particularly at Elizabethtown; and gradually surrounded the Dutch, besides settling in their midst. We can trace a few Englishmen in and around New York, who, at an early date, took Dutch wives, and have no disposition to blame them.

George Woolsey, an English boy, b. in 1610, had resided with his parents in Holland, say in Rotterdam. By tradition, he came over in a Dutch vessel with Dutch emigrants in 1623, only thirteen years old, and went to Plymouth, Mass. After the Dutch advertisement, in 1647, when he was thirty-seven years old, he makes his first appearance to us. On July 23d he was called up before the Dutch magnates and made oath as "George Woolsey, from Yarmouth, England," that "Fiscal Van Dych had accepted a present from Thomas Willett, on board his vessel." Some one had complained of this. The present was a beaver skin; and this is the first account we have of a custom-house present at New York, and the others we have are less "official." Whether this Fiscal Van Dych was the ancestor of our late Sub-Treasurer and Fiscal Van Dych, we are not informed, but suppose he was. The latter is not suspected of receiving presents; but some others are so. On August 10th, 1647, George Woolsey received a deed from Thomas Robertson, a previous English settler, of a house and plantation at Flushing, L. I. In December of the same year, disguised in Dutch, and called "Joris Wolzen," he was married at the Dutch church in New York. His wife was named Rebecca, probably Cornell. His first children were baptised in 1650 at the Dutch church in New York. He has many descendants now living among us and on Long Island.

Ensign George Baxter, the first English Secretary of a Dutch Governor, was employed in part for his knowledge of English, and in part for his knowledge of the law. We have not discovered where he got his law, nor that he had any to spare. He secured a grant of land in 1641. He has his special history, Dutch and English, and needs a biographer.

He was a predecessor of Captain Bryan Newton, an Englishman, who served the Dutch West India Company for some twenty years, and who was selected and appointed to come out with Governor Stuyvesant, in 1646, and became his chief military officer and a member of his council. He had a lot granted him at New York in 1651. He took lands in several towns on Long Island, and greatly needs and deserves a biography. It is presumed his wife was Dutch. He and his wife Alice were living at Jamaica, L. I., in 1680; and conveyed a house and lot to one of the sons of George Woolsey, making provision for their old age. Newtons appear on Long Island. It is not known whether he left sons or not.

Presently alarms and attacks occurred from Indians, and some massacres. The Indian wars at the east had driven the mad and hostile towards the Dutch. To strengthen the Dutch Governor's administration, two Englishmen were admitted to some degree of power at New York, as members of the Governor's Council. One was Thomas Hall, above named; the other was Isaac Allerton, from Plymouth, Mass., a native of London, a merchant, who had lived in Holland, married there a Norris, and had a sister married there, and who had stopped at various places here; a trader, selling goods and obtaining beaver. He was an intelligent man—not warlike—a consignee and manager of such English vessels as visited New York. An interesting sketch of him, showing his English and New England history, has been published (in Vol. 7 of the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Register), but it says little or nothing of his New York history. Could we call him as a witness, he would be a most valuable one. Perhaps something more may yet be told of his important career.

The first part of the great civil war in England raged about two years. The eastern colonies of New England, left by old England to take care of themselves at an early stage of it, combined together and crowded away the Indians from their immediate neighborhoods, from New Haven, the village of Moscow, N. Y., and was its founder. He was a man of high character and piety. He d. Oct. 8, 1837, a. 65. She d. Dec. 17, 1866, a. 92.

NOTES.

(a) The original monument over the remains of William Bradford and his wife, in Trinity Church grounds, was badly broken and defaced in the erection of the present church edifice. A new one of marble was placed over the graves by the Church Vestry in May, 1863, with the following inscription, under the figure of a full faced cherub:

Here lies the Body of Mr. WILLIAM BRADFORD, Printer, who departed this Life May 23, 1759, aged 92 Years: He was born in Leicestershire, in Old England, in 1666; and came over to America in 1682, before the City of Philadelphia was laid out: He was Printer to this Government for upwards of 30 years; and being quite worn out with Old age and labour, he left this mortal State in the lively Hopes of a blessed Immortality.

Reader, reflect how soon you'll quit this Stage: You'll find but few attain to such an Age. Lives full of Pain: Let here's a Place of Rest, Prepare to meet your God; then you are blest.

Here also lies the Body of Elizabeth, Wife to the said William Bradford, who departed this Life July (1) 8, 1731, aged 68 years.

RESTORED, WITH THE ORIGINAL INSCRIPTION, BY THE VESTRY OF TRINITY CHURCH, MAY, 1863.

(b) The will of Cornelia Bradford of Phila., widow, "Recorded for and at the request of Mrs. Catharine De Graw of the City of New York" May 10, 1762, will be found in the Surrogate's office, N. Y. City, Liber 14, A. p. 215. It is dated Jan'y 11, 1755; the date of probate in Phila. does not appear in the New York record. She bequeaths her property to her nephew James Hamu, and neices Elizabeth Flew, and Catharine De Graw (the daughter of her sister Mary) of New York, and to George Smith her nephew, and his wife Cornelia, of Phila., making the last two persons sole executors of her estate.

LONG ISLAND (N. Y.) FAMILIES IN CHESTER CO., PENNA.

Contributed by GEORGE COPE, Esq., of West Chester, Penna.

BENJAMIN COCK appears as a member of Concord Monthly Meeting of Friends in 1728, and in the beginning of the following year was "recommended" by the meeting as a minister. He was the son of Henry and Mary Cock, of Oyster Bay, L. I., and was married 9 mo., 25th, 1731, at Birmingham meeting, to Ann, dau. of Joseph and Mary Brinton, of Thornbury township, where he also settled. In 1758 he obtained a certificate to Long Island to pay a religious visit and to see his relatives, bringing a certificate from Westbury on his return.—

Issue:

JAMES, b. 12 mo., 6, 1731; m. Dorothy _____
JOHN, b. 4 mo., 4, 1735; disowned by the meeting, 1761.
BENJAMIN, b. 11 mo., 16, 1737; m. 11 mo., 19, 1766, Mary Talkington.
MARY, b. 5 mo., 6, 1739; m. 4 mo., 11, 1765, Josiah Haines.

(1) Juss?

MOSES, b. 8 mo., 20, 1742; m. 12 mo., 10, 1766, Hannah Evinson.
ANN, b. 6 mo., 18, 1745.

JOSEPH BRINTON, b. 4 mo., 26, 1755.

JAMES COCK obtained a certificate to Woodbridge, 5 mo., 8, 1760, and in 1763 produced one for himself and wife Dorothy, from that meeting, dated 10 mo., 21, 1762.—Issue as recorded:

GEORGE TOWNSEND, b. 8 mo., 16, 1767.

HANNAH, b. 11 mo., 23, 1769.

JAMES, b. 3 mo., 24, 1774.

SARAH, b. 4 mo., 27, 1777.

BENJAMIN, b. 9 mo., 14, 1780.

AMEY COCK, dau. of Henry and Mary, produced a certificate to Concord M. M. from Westbury, dated 9 mo., 25, 1730, and was married at Goshen meeting, 1 mo., 23, 1731, to Rees Jones, son of Richard Jones, of Goshen.—Issue:

HENRY, b. 4 mo., 22, 1733.

JOHN, b. 4 mo., 5, 1735.

RICHARD, b. 4 mo., 2, 1737.

JOSEPH, b. 5 mo., 14, 1739.

BENJAMIN, b. 9 mo., 29, 1741.

JANE, b. 11 mo., 12, 1743.

MARY, b. 4 mo., 2, 1746.

SARAH, b. 5 mo., 25, 1750.

EVAN, b. 6 m., 26, 1755.

MARY COCK, who appears to have been a sister to Benjamin and Amy, came from Long Island, and married Nathan Bane, of Goshen. This marriage was not accomplished according to the rules of the Society, but she afterward made an acknowledgment for her offence, and obtained a certificate from Westbury to Goshen M. M. in 1743. In 1755 she was disowned for her marriage before a Justice to (Francis?) Meechem. Of her children only the following have been noticed:

AMY, m. 12 mo., 7, 1758, to Nathan Coope (now Cope). (See Genealogy of Cope Family).

ELIZABETH, m. 11 mo., 11, 1762, to Daniel Hoopes.

JAMES, m. 4 mo., 25, 1765, to Ruth Wall.

DEBORAH, m. 4 mo., 14, 1774, to Samuel Rea.

THOMAS TOWNSEND was a settler in Concord township, where he died in 1732, as appears by his will, in which he mentions his wife Sarah, and children Nathaniel, Hannah (Underhill), Sarah (Titus), Thomas and John. To his son Nathaniel he devised all his lands on Long Island and in West Chester county; while to his sons Thomas and John he gave £600. (See also Martindale's Hist. Byberry and Moreland.)

JAMES TOWNSEND, supposed from Long Island, was a resident in Birmingham township, where he owned 275 acres of land. His will, dated Jan. 8, 1731, and proven April 10, 1732, mentions his wife Hannah, also his son James (to whom he devised the land), and sons in law William Brinton and George Baily. There is no evidence that the father and son were Friends, yet, when Azubah Townsend was married to William Brinton, Jr., at Birmingham meeting, in 1724, it appears she had brought a certificate from some other meeting. Isabel Townsend was received into membership in 1727, and married George Baily in less than two months after, at Birmingham meeting.

ORIGINAL FAMILY RECORDS OF LOOCKERMANS,
BAYARD, VAN CORTLANDT, VAN RENSSELAER, AND SCHUYLER.

Contributed by EDWARD F. DE LANCEY, Esq.

LOOCKERMANS—BAYARD.

THE Bible originally of Govert Loockermans, and subsequently of Balthazar Bayard, his son-in-law, containing the following family record, is in the possession of the American Bible Society, to which it was presented by the late Peter G. Stuyvesant in 1816. It is marked C. 48 on their catalogue. It is a small, thick duodecimo in the Dutch language, beautifully printed in double columns, in fine German type, by Paulus van Ravensteyn, at Amsterdam, in 1623, according to the printed statement on the final leaf of the volume; but on both the engraved and the printed title-pages—for there are two—the date 1624 appears.

The volume contains the Old Testament, Apocrypha, and New Testament, which are folioed, not paged, two leaves of four columns each constituting a folio. The Old Testament and Apocrypha together have 144 folios, and the New Testament 82. These occupy about two-thirds of the book. The remainder consists of the Psalms of David in metre, set to music, three to eight bars of music preceding each psalm; the "Catechismus" of the Dutch Church; the Athanasian Creed—"The Form and Profession of Faith of the holy Athanasius, Bishop of Alexandria, written in the year from the birth of Christ, 333," as the heading sets forth; and the offices of the Dutch Church liturgy in their order.

The family record is written on each side of the first of two fly-leaves at the end of the book, which, when new, must have been an elegant volume. It is bound in black shagreen, tooled, stretched on thick wooden covers, the inside edges bevelled, and fastened with two clasps and four corner-pieces of silver, of exquisite design, in filigree, with chased angels' heads on the solid centres of each clasp and corner-piece. The edges of the book are gilt, and stamped with a beautiful design, which is still perfectly distinct, though the tarnished gilding has lost most of its metallic lustre.

Throughout, each book of the Bible, and each important portion of the other contents, begins with an ornamented capital letter. The first title is a copper-plate, of great artistic merit, very finely executed, and the second title and the final leaves each contain a wood-cut, in the style of Albert Dürer, of Elijah fed by the ravens.

The following is a translation of the entries referred to:

2. JAMES MURRAY, b. 1823.
3. JOHN CRUGER MURRAY, b. 1825.
4. GEORGE HERBERT MURRAY, b. 1826.
5. HUGH PENCY MURRAY, b. 1828.
6. EMMA ATHOL MURRAY, b. 1843.

The second wife of Henry Cruger was Miss Caroline Elizabeth Blair, and their issue were,

1. HENRY H. CRUGER, m. Mary, dau. of Nicholas Cruger, his first cousin.
2. CORDELLA, m. John H. Bailey, of N. Y.
3. LOUISA, d. unm. in 1853.
4. MATILDA, m. Thomas J. Oakley, late Judge of the Superior Court of New York.
5. WILLIAM CRUGER.
6. JOHN, who was the father of John Pesch Cruger, of Crugers, Westchester County, N. Y.

Tileman Cruger, the third son, was a West India merchant, married a lady of the Island of Curacoa and resided there. He had a son, Henry, and other children.

Nicholas Cruger, the fourth and youngest son, was also a West India merchant in extensive business at Santa Cruz, and it was in his counting-house there, that the relatives of the mother of Alexander Hamilton, the daughter of a French physician of the Island of Nevis, named Faucette, who were residents of Santa Cruz, placed her son as a clerk. Cruger liked the youth, and chiefly through his influence and advice, he was subsequently sent to New York, and thus enabled to enter upon the great career which he afterwards ran. Nicholas Cruger, unlike his brother, leaned to the American side at the time of the Revolution, and became a great friend and admirer of Washington, whom he accompanied in his final triumphant entry into New York on Nov. 25th, 1783. On one of his voyages to Santa Cruz the vessel was captured by a British man-of-war. The captain asked him his name; on hearing it, he at once enquired if he was any relation to Col. Cruger of the British army at the South. "He is my brother," said Cruger. "Why," exclaimed the captain, "I am carrying to Halifax the despatches to Government with the account of his great success in Carolina," and then told him of the Colonel's brave and successful defence of Fort Ninety-six.

Taken again on another voyage to Santa Cruz, the captors found among his effects a portrait of Washington. On opening the box, the officer exclaimed, "Who have we here?" And instantly recognizing the portrait, continued, "Oh, 'tis the Pretender, I perceive." The vessel was sent into New York, condemned, and Cruger kept a prisoner on parole. His captivity was not very severe, as he was permitted to reside with the relatives of his brother-in-law, Walton, at the Walton House.

Nicholas Cruger married first, Ann, daughter of Compté de Nully, of Santa Cruz, whose mother, a lady of Dutch extraction, was named Heyliger. By her (who died at Santa Cruz in 1784) he had issue:

1. BERTRAM PETER, m. first, Catharine, dau. of John B. Church and Angelica Schuyler, his wife.—Issue:

1. EUGENE, d. unmarried.

4. JOSIAH DEWEY, b. Feb. 27, 1758.
5. SYLVESTER DEWEY, b. Dec. 7, 1759.
6. ALPHEUS DEWEY, b. March 1, 1762.

Here ends the account of the family history of Dea. Josiah Dewey 3d, of Lebanon, Ct.

V. The children of Daniel Dewey (son of John Dewey, of Lebanon, Ct., and Experience Woodward; see p. 68), No. 88. II., and Temperance Bailey were these six, namely:

1. TEMPERANCE DEWEY, b. Jan. 5, 1754.
2. ESTHER DEWEY, b. Oct. 3, 1757.
3. DANIEL DEWEY 2d, b. April 23, 1760.

5. PHILENA DEWEY, b. April 17, 1767.
6. EBENEZER DEWEY, b. Feb. 16, 1769, d. March 20, 1769.

VI. To the above additional items of Dewey genealogy, which can be readily put in their proper places, each in their several way, the writer is able to furnish for future use by others some scattered facts of interest, which he himself knows not how to arrange according to their proper belongings. They are these:

I. HANNAH DEWEY (whose daughter, the writer knows not), b. about 1670, m. March 3, 1690-1, Benjamin Newberry, Jr., of Windsor, Ct., b. April 20, 1669 (son of Capt. Benj. Newberry, of Windsor, and Mary Allyn). He d. Nov. 3, 1709. For account of their descendants see Hist. of Ancient Windsor.

II. JOSEPH DEWEY, of Lebanon, Ct. (perhaps No. 140. VI., b. May 10, 1684), m. Abigail Hills about 1725. They had 5 children:

1. JOSIAH DEWEY, b. May 24, 1727.
2. MEDITABLE DEWEY, b. Aug., 1732.
3. MARY DEWEY, b. Aug. 30, 1734.

3. CEPHAS DEWEY, b. July 7, 1772, who m. Nov. 10, 1796, Tamar Slack.

X. In Westfield, Mass., the following marriages are recorded, some of which the writer is not able to assort in their proper places, namely:

1. ZERVIAH DEWEY, m. in 1747 (pub. May 17) Solomon Noble, of Norwalk, Ct.
2. MARY DEWEY, m. Nov. 8, 1744, Joseph Clarke. She d. April 10, 1749; he d. Oct. 7, 1749.
3. SARAH DEWEY (probably No. 51. I., b. May 27, 1714, dau. of Israel and Sarah Dewey, of Westfield) m. Dec. 22, 1743, Josias Sackett.

The facts, so many of them fragmentary in their character, which have been grouped together in the three articles furnished by the writer concerning the history of the Dewey Family in this country, have seemed to him quite too valuable to be exposed to be lost. He has set them in permanent shape on the pages of THE RECORD, in the hope that they will be at some future day enlarged to their full and complete dimensions by some earnest and careful examiner into their real scope and significance.

The Dewey has been a large, thriving, and religious family in the land, and its history ought to be written out in full while the materials for doing so are accessible in various directions. Mechanical instincts, tastes, and capabilities have been, as the writer believes, a leading characteristic of large numbers of this family.

ORIGINAL FAMILY RECORDS—CRUGER.

CONTRIBUTED BY EDWARD F. DE LANCEY.

INFORMATION received since the publication of the Cruger article in the April number of THE RECORD, permits the correction of some errors in, and additions to, the later genealogy of this family. The following statements and tables are to be taken in the place of those on pages 78, 79, and 80, as regards the persons named below.

Constable was to be elected every year out of the Overseers of the previous year.

The Constable and Overseers managed the Town affairs, and had power to make orders & rules concerning fences, highways and similar matters. Constables were to attend Courts, and they had power to arrest, those who were overtaken with strong drink, or found swearing, or Sabbath breaking, Vagrants night walkers, provided taken in sight of Constable, or proven information from others or if in beer or disorderly places

"Every Constable shall have a Staff six feet long with the Kings arms on it, as a badge of his authority"

The Town Court had Jurisdiction of assault, Slander, and disorderly conduct generally, One offense was defined "as giving false news and lying about another." The penalty was a fine of 40 shilling if Paid" if not paid to sit in the stock or be whipped 40 strokes and give satisfaction.

T. P. was then 26 years old.

Huntington Records show that Thomas Powell was frequently elected to fill important positions in the Township—the first of which appears to have been in 1663, when at the age of 22 he was made Recorder. this office he held most of the time for about 20 years.

In 1666 Thomas Powell, John James, James Chichester, Ebenezer Platt, Isaac Platt, Thomas Platt John Bailey & Jonas Wood; were Trustees of the Freeholders of the Town of Huntington, and their successors. and the Patent was issued in their names, on behalf of the Company.

1684 T. Powell and one of the others were sent to Gov Nichols. to obtain a pattennt from him. These Slawson Decker Company, of which he was elected president, and under his practical and careful judgment this organization has acquired a large and profitable patronage among the best families of New York City, and has gained a high standing in commercial circles. He has been a resident of New York City for many years, and in all respects has proven himself a worthy citizen of that great metropolis.

Mr. Horton was married, March 19, 1879, to Alice T. Bailey, born April 16, 1857, died June 15, 1893, daughter of Abraham T. and Susan (Penny) Bailey of Purdy Station, Westchester county, New York, and their children are: Daniel S., born December 24, 1879; Chauncey T., born April 2, 1883; Gabrielle Horton, born January 6, 1886, died August 25, 1887; Ralph, born March 13, 1889; Jerome, born April 30, 1891. Mr. Horton married October 30, 1895, Mary Elizabeth Adams, born December 28, 1860, daughter of Perkinson and Mary (Wilson) Adams, of Sussex county, New Jersey.

HORACE T. HORTON.

Horace T. Horton, an officer for the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in New York City, was born in Wallkill, Orange county, New York, May 9, 1860, son of Gabriel C. and Elizabeth (Thompson) Horton, and one of two children, viz.: Horace T., and Gilbert B., born August 7, 1864. He married Rose Payne, and has two children as follows: Mary Hope, born July 30, 1886; Harry A., born December 1, 1888.

Horace T. Horton received his elementary training in the schools of his native town, and for some time attended an academy at Middletown, New York, also an academy at Stamford, Delaware county, New York. At the age of nineteen he took up the practical duties of life, and entered the employ of Slaw-done much for the material as well as the educational interests of the neighborhood. Mr. Arnow has served as deputy tax commissioner during Mayor Strong's administration.

Thomas C. Arnow married, November 16, 1887, Mary L. Tier, daughter of Daniel and Susan Ann (Bussing) Tier, both of Westchester. Of this marriage were born the following children: Mabel, born May 22, 1889, died November 20, 1889. Matson C., born March 27, 1891. Mr. Arnow and his family are members of St. Peter's Episcopal church at Westchester.

BURBANK FAMILY.

The following notes are principally derived from "Clute's History of Staten Island." Tradition states that the first settlers of the name were three brothers, one of whom settled on Staten Island, and the others in New England. Thomas Burbank is first mentioned in the records of the Dutch church. He married Maritie Martling, and had a daughter baptized April 22, 1707. John Burbank and wife, Leah Haughwout, had two sons: Thomas, baptized December 3, 1728, and John, August 16, 1743. Lucas Burbank married Martha Baile (or Bagley) and had children baptized 1736-1742. Peter Burbank left a will dated November 6, 1774, and proved November 5, 1793. He left wife, Martha, and had children: John, James and Martha. John Burbank had wife, Elizabeth, and son William, born June 3, 1786. James Burbank had wife Nelly, and son Abraham, 1786.

Daniel Burbank, son of Daniel and Ann Elizabeth (Morgan) Burbank, is one of a family of five children, namely: John Henry, deceased, who left a family of four daughters and two sons. Daniel, see forward. Charles, deceased, had a family of two children by his first marriage and by his second marriage had four children. Catherine. Deborah, married Thomas Watson. Both these parents were highly respected by their neighbors and all who came in contact with them.

Daniel Burbank, second child of the aforementioned family, was born at West Brighton, borough of Richmond, January 10, 1837. He received his educational training in the schools of the neighborhood, and at the age of twenty-one went to New York City, where he was for a number of years engaged in the oyster business. In 1875 he removed to Gifford, now Great Kills, borough of Richmond, where he has resided up to the present period, and here engaged in the oyster planting and shipping business, which line of enterprise he has conducted successfully. Mr. Burbank has become well and favorably known for his honorable and straightforward methods in conducting all of his affairs, and is regarded in the neighborhood as a progressive and enterprising citizen.

Daniel Burbank married, April 4, 1858, Permelier Decker, daughter of Abraham and Jennie (Decker) Decker. Of this marriage he had born to him three children, as follows: 1. Archer H., born April 28, 1861, married Ella Watts and has one daughter, Madaline Burbank. 2. Ella, born January 24, 1864, married Willinum Matherson and has one child, Neita Matherson. 3. Grace Etta, born November 12, 1867, married Robert Smith and has one son, Gordon Smith. The mother, Permelier (Decker) Burbank, died October 19, 1872; she was a consistent christian lady and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of West New Brighton, Richmond county.

FAMILY OF CHRISTOPHER OR CHRISTOFFELL.

The earliest mention of this family, which is of Holland origin, is found in Church Records. Barent Christoffell married Anna Catharina Stillwell, and had children: Nicholas, baptized August 4, 1703. Catharyna, April 23, 1706. Rebecka, resided and taught school on Little Queen street. In 1799 he was invited by some influential men in Boston to open a school there, which became quite noted. He returned to New York about 1809 and taught school on Common near Grand street. He died March 7, 1812.

In the cemetery at East Hampton is the grave marked by a stone of Andrew Isaacs, the father of William Payne's wife, Sarah (Isaacs) Payne, on which is inscribed: "Behold an Israelite in Whom is No Guile."

William Payne by his wife Sarah (Isaacs) Payne had issue:

1. Lucy Taylor, born 1781, at East Hampton, married, in 1816, Dr. John Cheever Osborne, of New York; died in Brooklyn, 1865, left no issue.
2. William Osborne, born at East Hampton, August 4, 1783, died March 24, 1804.
3. Sarah Isaacs, born at East Hampton, July 11, 1785, died in New York, October 14, 1808.
4. Eloise Richards, born at East Hampton, March 12, 1787, died at Leicester, Massachusetts, July, 1819.
5. Anna Beren Leagers, born at East Hampton, April 9, 1789, died at Newport, Rhode Island, October 11, 1789.
6. John Howard, the poet, born in New York city, at 33 Pearl street, June 9, 1791, died at Tunis, Africa, April 9, 1852.
7. Eliza Maria, born in New York city, September 19, 1795, died there May 25, 1797.
8. Thatcher Taylor, born in New York city, August 14, 1796, married in New York, 1833, Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Bailey, died in Brooklyn, December 27, 1863.
9. Elizabeth Mary, born in Boston, Massachusetts, died there aged about two years.

and Tradesmen for over fifty years. For over thirty years a consistent member of the Baptist church, and withholds his support from no movement or measure which he believes will prove of public good. He is a gentleman of unflinching courtesy and kindness, and his sterling qualities have endeared him to all who have come in contact with him, and it is safe to say that no man in the community is held in more sincere regard.

Mr. Bloodgood married (first), in New York, October 22, 1845, Matilda W. Raynor, daughter of _____ and Eliza Ann (Stahsbury) Raynor, who was born at Flushing, Long Island, 1821, died November 4, 1860. Three children were the issue of this union: Eliza Matilda, Mary Louisa, wife of Charles C. Alexander, and has three children: William Edgar, born October 20, 1853. Mr. Bloodgood married (second), June 1, 1864, Eliza Ann Curtis, born in Warminster, England, October 25, 1830, died October 25, 1900. Their children are: Martha C., born April 16, 1866, wife of Walter L. Day; Freeman, Jr., born March 3, 1868; Ezra S., born February 11, 1871.

William Edgar Bloodgood, only son of Freeman and Matilda W. (Raynor) Bloodgood, born October 20, 1853, acquired his education in the public schools of New York, after which he gained a thorough knowledge of the mason and building trade under the tuition of his father. He then turned his attention to architecture, made himself proficient in this branch, and is now engaged lucratively in this profession. He is a consistent member of the Baptist church at Montclair, New Jersey. He married, January 20, 1880, Ida Stillwell Bailey, who died October, 1885. Mr. Bloodgood married (second), March 20, 1889, Jeanette Low, and their children are: Ethel Raynor, born March 12, 1897, and Jeanette, born February 9, 1902.

Freeman Bloodgood, Jr., eldest son of Freeman and Eliza Ann (Curtis) Bloodgood, born March 3, 1868, was educated in Hotel. During the fall of the same year he went to Orange, Connecticut, with Mr. Leverite Treat, working on a farm for one year, then to New Haven, where he was in the employ of the Candee Rubber Company for three years. During a part of this time he held the position of fireman and of foreman of the works, running nine steam pumps and an electric engine by five hundred horse power. He was then in the employ of Rhilander Armstrong for three years as coachman; G. W. Hazel, two years; Peck & Bishop Company and several others until 1890, when he returned to New York, and has since that time resided in that city. He was ordained to the ministry in New Waterford, Ohio, was immediately appointed a mission preacher, and was engaged in mission work for a period of six years. He was then appointed pastor of Shiloh Baptist church, in Newburg, New York, resigned after one year and again engaged in mission work. Has been actively engaged in mission work in New York. He established himself in the undertaking and embalming business at 548 West Thirty-ninth street, in 1902, and in November of the same year removed to his present place of business at No. 209 West Sixty-third street. He is regularly licensed and pays personal attention to all the details of his business, adopting all new and practical improvements that are called to his attention. He is connected with the following organizations: Oriental Lodge, No. 6, Free and Accepted Masons, of New Haven, Connecticut; Lodge No. 900, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of New York; Knights of Pythias; Mount Olivet Lodge, No. 191; Good Hope Lodge, Order of Good Hope; Temple House, No. 3, Order of Moses; Grand Ancient Supreme Host of Israel, No. 1; and the Undertakers' Association of New York. He is a man of great energy, force of character and executive ability.

His wife is a French woman, from Paris, is well educated and possesses great business ability. She is a watchmaker by trade. Through her attentiveness to their present business she has rendered her husband great assistance, practically making the business what it is today.

REV. WILLIAM T. ANTHONY.

Sharon Baptist church, situated in East Ninety-fifth street, New York city, is under the able and conscientious guidance of Rev. William T. Anthony.

The congregation was organized May 12, 1892, by the Mount Olivet Baptist church, and Rev. J. B. Coleman was the first pastor. The services at that time were held in a hall in Ninety-seventh street. Rev. John Coleman was succeeded by Rev. Johnson, and he, two years later, by Rev. G. W. Bailey, who remained in charge until 1901, Rev. M. J. Haskins taking his place until December, 1904, when the present pastor, Rev. William T. Anthony, took charge. The congregation numbers fifty-five members, and there is an average Sunday school attendance of twenty-five. The organizations connected with the church are: Women's Missionary Society, Sewing School Society and Literary Society.

Rev. William T. Anthony was born in Richmond, Virginia, November 6, 1879. His preliminary education was acquired in the public and normal schools of Richmond, Virginia, and his studies in theology were pursued under private tuition in the same city. He was converted May 22, 1884, and baptized in the Fourth Baptist church, Richmond, Virginia, by Rev. Dr. Evan Payne. He has served as president of the Church Hill Young Men's Christian Association of Richmond, Virginia, and was its organizer. He was also superintendent of the Sharon Baptist Sunday school for a number of years. He was ordained December 14, 1905, at Sharon Baptist church, by some of the leading ministers of New York city and vicinity, and passed a creditable
