- D-34 Harman/Herman Rosekrans - bp Kingston, N.Y. RDC 10 May 1716 sp
Omfry Devenport and Anna Roosekrans; m Maria Stout

Probably moved to Western, N.Y. or Wisc. - from Wyoming Co., Pa.

"At 15 years of age he accompanied his parents from Rochester, N.Y. to Walpack, N.J. and m Maria Stout (also given as Anna) about the year 1743. Anna was probably a daughter of John Stout of Walpack, who according to Everett & Peck's History purchased a farm below Shappanack on the Delaware 1744. As mentioned in his father's biography Harmen purchased of his father, 1742 the lower Shappanack farm, recently purchased of Frederick Schoonmaker consisting of about 500 acres, which he sold to his brother-in-law Isaac VanCampen for L900 1754. His deed to VanCampen dated 8 Apr 1754, in the hands of Peter Dewitt, is signed 'Harman Rosekrans' and 'Mary Rosekrans,' and is witnessed by 'Nicholas Emins', and John Williams - Recorded at Burlington Liber R., pg 321.

"After selling his farm to Isaac VanCampen Harmen Rosekrans seems to have gone to Hunterdon Co., N.J. as the records there show 'owned 598 acres of West Jersey Society lands,' in the northwestern part of the county and that in 1761 he advertised 'a sorrel mare astray.' - (Rev. T. F. Chambers, German Valley, N.J.) In 1769 Harmen again owned land in Walpack along Flatbrook, as we learn (from, part of a deed found in the roll of family documents mentioned in 'sources of family information') that he sold twenty acres of meadow land there to his brother John adjoining his own land, at 'a stream emptying into Flatbrook on the road running from Abram Brokaws to Isaac VanNests.' Harmen's land must have been near the Timothy E. Shay farm on the road leading to the old stone Methodist Church east of Flatbrook, since Abram Brokaw then lived on the Jacobus Brink, or John Layton, Jr. farm in Sandyston, and Isaac VanNest lived on the Robert Bell farm, formerly owned by John Cleves Symmes. No trace of Harmen Rosekrans, or his family has been found since his sale to Col. John in 1769."

"Isaac came down-river and settled in the Minisink area in the early 1700's.on July 3, 1750 purchased land from Joseph Stout of Hopewell, N.J. This property was situated on the East-West Jersey line just north of Shapanock, then owned by John and Harmon Rosenkrans. It is not known whether Isaac built on this property or lived with his in-laws. Isaac deeded 111 A of this property to his son Abraham on 15 June 1779. Isaac VanCampen purchased of Harmen Rosenkrans the lower Shappanack farm in 1754 and lived in the stone dwelling on the premises until his death. Harmon had purchased Shapanack from his father in 1742, unoccupied and unimproved. It is not known whether Harmon built a log cabin on this property or lived in one of the houses near his father.

"By 1773 Isaac had become a wealthy land owner and influential gentleman by having acquired 760A and owning several slaves. The river flats were able to produce large amounts of grain and fatten his livestock. Either he or one of the slaves learned the trade of blacksmithing for he mentions his blacksmith tools in his will. This would have helped to make his 'plantation' reasonably self-sufficient.

"Isaac VanCampen served as a member of the Provincial Congress of New Jersey in 1776 along with four other representatives from Sussex Co. He was a member when on the 16th of June 1776 that body ordered the arrest of Gov. William Franklin (VanCampen's was one of the 42 ayes) This same Provincial Congress drafted and adopted the first constitution of the State of N.J.

"However according to the New Jersey Archives, he was a member of the state legislature 1782-85 during which time he helped change the type of Government from colonial to constitutional. Trenton, N.J. was the Temporary capital of the United States when the 1783 Continental Congress met at Nassau Hall, Princeton 2 Jan-4 Nov in 1790 Trenton became the capital of New Jersey.

"Isaac remarried in 1780, continuing to live at Shapamack with his children and grandchildren. He left the use of the room in which he had been living to his son Isaac. This probably was the smaller two-story part which may have been built at the time of his second marriage, leaving the main house to his son Abraham and his family.

"Isaac, Jr. besides retaining life right to the room received one horse and tack, one feather bed and 30 pounds yearly. He was "also to receive assorted bedding, a silver watch, table and chairs, Mirror and cut fire wood to be brought to his room and a large walnut cupboard.

"Son Abraham received all real estate, part of which was to be sold to pay debts and to take care of his (Abraham's) three 'Impotent' children during their life time. Abraham's daughter Catrina, was to receive three feather beds and bedding, other household furniture and a mare.

"Specific instructions were given to free the Negro woman Sophia and her three Children. Also Negroes, Daniel, Adam and Eniss." Will recorded Trenton Book 39 p 489

Article about VanCampen Inn found in the Sussex Co., Hist. Soc.
 Newton, N.J.

"Isaac VanCampen purchased of Harmen Rosenkrans the lower Shappanach farm in 1754 and lived in the stone dwelling on the premises till his death, 1801. He acted as Freeholder, Justice of the Peace, Associate Judge of the county and Member of the State Legislature. He made a will 11 Sept 1801 and died the same year.

"According to the church records. Isaac and Magdalena had five children born unto them ...but all these probably died before 1801 since in his will of that date he mentions only two children not named (in church records) Isaac and Abraham, for whom he provided and also for the children of Abraham, Isaac being unmarried. By his will he manumitted his slaves, 'Sophia and her four children and the three men, Daniel and Adam and Enos'. His wife Magdalena must have died prior to the date of his will, as she is not mentioned in it."

"At seven years of age he accompanied his parents to Walpack Sussex Co., N.J., then Morris County, when the country was mostly a wilderness and the forests frequently resounded with the cries of the panther and the wild whoop of the Indians. Along the banks of the Delaware he grew to manhood and while deprived of the educational advantages of a city or modern rural life, he "became a man of moral worth and public usefulness, an extensive farmer, an elder of the church and a Colonel in the Continental Army. In 1745, Col John purchased of his father the homestead Shappanack farm of about 500 acres, adjoining the farm of his brother Harmen purchased 1742. Each of these farms, besides the uplands, contained about seventy acres of river flats of sandy loam and very productive. The flats of the Shappanack farms today are the most noted in the county for productiveness and easy tillage, one of which is now leased by a syndicate raising special crops of tobacco and potatoes. The date and beginning of Col. John's deed from his father is as follows:

"'This indenture made the 27th day of March, in the year of our Lord Christ one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, between Alexander Rosekrance, of Shappanack, in the township of Wallpeck, county of Morris and Province of West New Jersey, yeoman, and Marriky, his wife, of the one part, and Johannis Rosekrance, his youngest son, of the township, county and province aforesaid, yeoman of the other part, WITNESSETH' etc.'

"Having secured for himself a farm and a home, when his parents were old and feeble, or perhaps departed, Col. John Rosenkrans contemplated marriage, but like Isaac and Jacob of old, he sought not for a wife in the place of his sojourn, but took one from the land of his fathers, the home of his kindred. On Aug 8th 1751 Col John Rosenkrans of Walpack, N.J. m Margaret DeWitt of Rochester, Ulster Co., N.Y. and over the 'Old Mine Road' by way of Port Clinton, Port Jervis and Minisink, with perhaps as good a conveyance as the county afforded, he brought his bride from Rochester to Walpack.....

"Three years after his marriage, Col. John Rosenkrans added to his 500 acres another tract of 750 acres, adjoining his property on the northeast. This was the Samuel Nevill tract, extending from the Delaware to across Flat Brook, and from the Shappanack tract to beyond the East and West New Jersey line, which is now the division line between the townships of Walpack and Sandyston. For this tract he paid L122, the deed for which is recorded at Newton (Book T 3, p 89) By mistakes made in the Walpack map in 'Everttt and Peck's the Joseph Kirkbride' tract of 500 acres is located at Shappanack where the Alexander Rosenkrans tracts of 900 acres is situated and the 'Ennis & Co.' tract is located adjoining it where the Nevill tract lies. Among the family papers of Col. John Rosenkrans in the possession of the writer is a deed from several parties in Rochester to John Rosenkrans, of Walpack, for a three-fourths interest in the land in Ulster Co., the deed of which is dated Oct 22nd, 1766, in the 'sixth year of the reign of King George the 3rd'. This land is on the Louw and Catharine Louw, Teunis Oosterhout, Johanna Oosterhout and Jacob Oosterhout. On the red wax seals opposite these names may yet be seen standing out boldly the red lion of England, the symbol of progressiveness and power and with England the monarch of the sea.

"The deed for twenty acres of meadow land from Harmen to Col. John, spoken of concerning Harmen, begins thus:

'This indenture made the first day of July, 1729 in the 9th year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the 3rd, by the Grace of God of Great Brittain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, etc.'

"Besides these lands in Sussex County and Ulster Col. John Rosenkrans owned two tracts, or farms, amounting to 275 acres, in Northampton Co., Pa., situated between Shappanack and Dingman's Choice, one of which tracts he received by 'patent' and the other by purchase from the heirs of William Penn. He was one of the leading men of the Delaware Valley and of the County - the earliest settlers of the County having located on the Delaware, among whom were some able men. Col. Abraham Vancampen, Col. John Cleves Symmes and Col. John Rosenkrans were successively Colonels of the Delaware Valley. Abraham Vancampen was Colonel and engaged in checking the depredations of the Indians, 1755. John Cleves Symmes was Commissioned Colonel at the beginning of the Revolution, and Captain John Rosekrans was appointed Col when Col Symmes resigned for the Judgeship, May 23, 1777. Col John in his time served as Freeholder, Justice of the Peace, Committeeman of Safety before the war; as Captain at its beginning, and as Col from 1777 to its close.

"He was also an active Christian; an Elder of the Reformed Dutch Church and gave the grounds for the burial place and the church erected on his farm. The church was built of logs, octagonal in form and erected about 1770. Among the early burials there was the wife of Col. John Cleves Symmes; the mother-in-law of William Henry Harrison buried 1776. Her grave is on the brow of the hill near the road, and on her headstone still standing there is the following inscription:

'In remembrance of Mrs. Anna Symmes who was born Oct 1741; m to the Hon. Jno. C. Symmes, 30th Oct., 1760 and died 25th July 1776, leaving two daughters, Maria and Anna'....

"Brief records as soldiers are given of Col. John Rosenkrans and his sons Jacob, Alexander and Benjamin in Adj. Gen. W. S. Stryker's reports of New Jersey soldiers of the Revolution and of the War of 1812, Benjamin having been in the later. In

'Col. John Rosenkrans and Major Samuel Westbrook were also actively engaged during the war. Col. Rosenkrans accompanied Gen. Rosenkrans' regiment was led by Major Samuel Westbrook against a party of Indians, April 19, 1780 in this action Capt. Peter Westbrook was killed.'

"Col John kept slaves on his farm, as did Isaac VanCampen on the adjoining property, and made a will, 1756, now in the writer;s possession, which never went to probate, containing the following items. He bequeathed to his 'beloved wife Margaret' the choices of his 'winches,' and to his eldest son John as a 'birthright

'gift' his 'shooting-gun'. In his last will, 1786, recorded at the close of this biography, Col John bequeathed to his eldest son John his negro boy Cuff'....

"Col John made his last will May 1st 1786 and died June 15th following. Of Margaret's death we have no record, though she was living at the time his will was made. No lettered monument points out the place of their burial, but is probably near that of Mrs. Anna Symmes on the hill top of the Shappanack burial ground...
