

To my Esteemed Cousin Robert,
with kindest personal regards.

Richard.

Foreword.

It is perfectly normal, natural and wholesome to evince an interest in one's progenitors and in their lives and activities, their strengths and weaknesses, their accomplishments and failures and in their status, their standards and, in general, their outlook on life.

Of course, those few lines which can be traced to any appreciable extent, represent but an infinitesimal cross-sectional area of the heredity enjoyed by each and every one of us. However, if an admiration for the services and objectives of some of those "gone before" can be induced and channelled into a spirit of humility and noble obligation, the net result can be an inward strength of profundity.

A knowledge of family history and, more particularly, concerning one's antecedents, far from promoting "sinful pride", should invoke dignity and self respect, with their consequent obligations.

Pride.

There is "Sinful Pride" and there's "Wimful Pride"
And there's also that "Pride without end."
There is "Scornful Pride" one can never abide
Which is guaranteed Sure to Offend.

You may say that you're proud of your children;
Community; proud to be free;
Proud of your background and thrilled when
The Fruit of it's Virtues you see.

But the Personal Pride which directs us,
Preserving, in each, self-respect,
Is essential in that it protects us,
For dignity has this effect.

It's a character characteristic
Which sets us apart from the beast
And encourages ritualistic
Restraint in the Great and the least.

It's a primary reason for being Respectable, orthodox man—
So polish your Pride into seeing
You're doing the best that you can!

Conclusion

"Robles Obligis"

Oh, sometimes happy progeny
Of noble dies and worthy names,
Whose tendency to courtesy,
Consistently, your blood proclaims,
Retain this nobler thought in mind:-
your constant obligation
do need to find (with dead to bind)
Continual obligation.

Boat Pieces Are Found on Ararat

LONDON (AP) - A team of American archaeologists looking for the remains of Noah's Ark reported Friday several pieces of wood, apparently part of a huge boat, have been found 14,000 feet up the slopes of Mount Ararat in eastern Turkey. George Vandeman, chairman of the American-based Archaeological Research Foundation, told a news conference here he hoped to know for certain within three years whether or not the ark is on the mountain. Vandeman said the pieces of wood fitted in with research through the years. The evidence suggested they came from a boat about two-thirds the size of the British Cunard liner Queen Mary. The Queen Mary is 1,019 feet long, 118 feet wide. In 1955, said Vandeman, another piece of wood, seven feet long, was found in an ice pack in the same area. It was estimated to date from around 2,500 B.C.

A woman was trying to impress her friends at a party one afternoon. She stated her family's ancestry dated back to the days of King John of England. Then, turned to a woman sitting nearby, she said condescendingly, "How old is your family, my dear?" "Well," replied the woman with a smile, "I really can't say. All of our family records were lost in the Flood."

"To live, to cast his seed and die."

Those two were in the garden
(Whose seed was Abraham)
"Don't touch" quoth he, "the fruit," but she said "I don't care Adam's."

So, forth they went, by Heaven sent,
To populate the globe
And he was peevish that Eve conceived
They must, themselves, enrobe.

Thus was begun the rat-race run
By mankind, ever since,
And 'tis the lot of all begot
By Pauper, Peer or Prince

To eat the apple, drop the seed
And wind up with the core;
To bear in mind the final rind's
Not what it was before.

But, what a pleasant orchard from
The seeds dropped "en passant";
So, thanks, from me, to G. and E.
As we move "en avant".
