PREFACE

After many years of writing in names of new family members and dates of births and deaths of others, Miriam and I decided it was appropriate to update the Waterhouse Family Tree booklet which my mother published in 1976. We had been corresponding with many of the cousins, although infrequently on some occasions, but really did not know their family members which had grown in numbers and changed these past 29 years.

Initially, the contacts we made were most productive with family data submitted promptly, but the task grew substantially when we could not locate some of the distant relatives who had moved around the country. While this endeavor has taken us over two years to obtain input from virtually every family, we are pleased to produce this second edition of the Waterhouse Family Tree. We thank everyone who furnished new data for the book.

The following page includes a snapshot of the Sargent and Waterhouse ancestors taken from the "Family Tree Chart". Many of these ancestors are interred in three cemeteries located in Merrimac, Mass. Locust Grove includes the Waterhouse relatives, Church Street has the tombstone for Alvin Waterhouse, the father of Charles L. and the Lower Corner Cemetery is where the Sargent family members are located. Cousins Richard and George, who reside in Merrimac, take turns decorating the Waterhouse grave sites and the gravesites of Isabelle Sargent Waterhouse's parents each Memorial Day.

WATERHOUSE

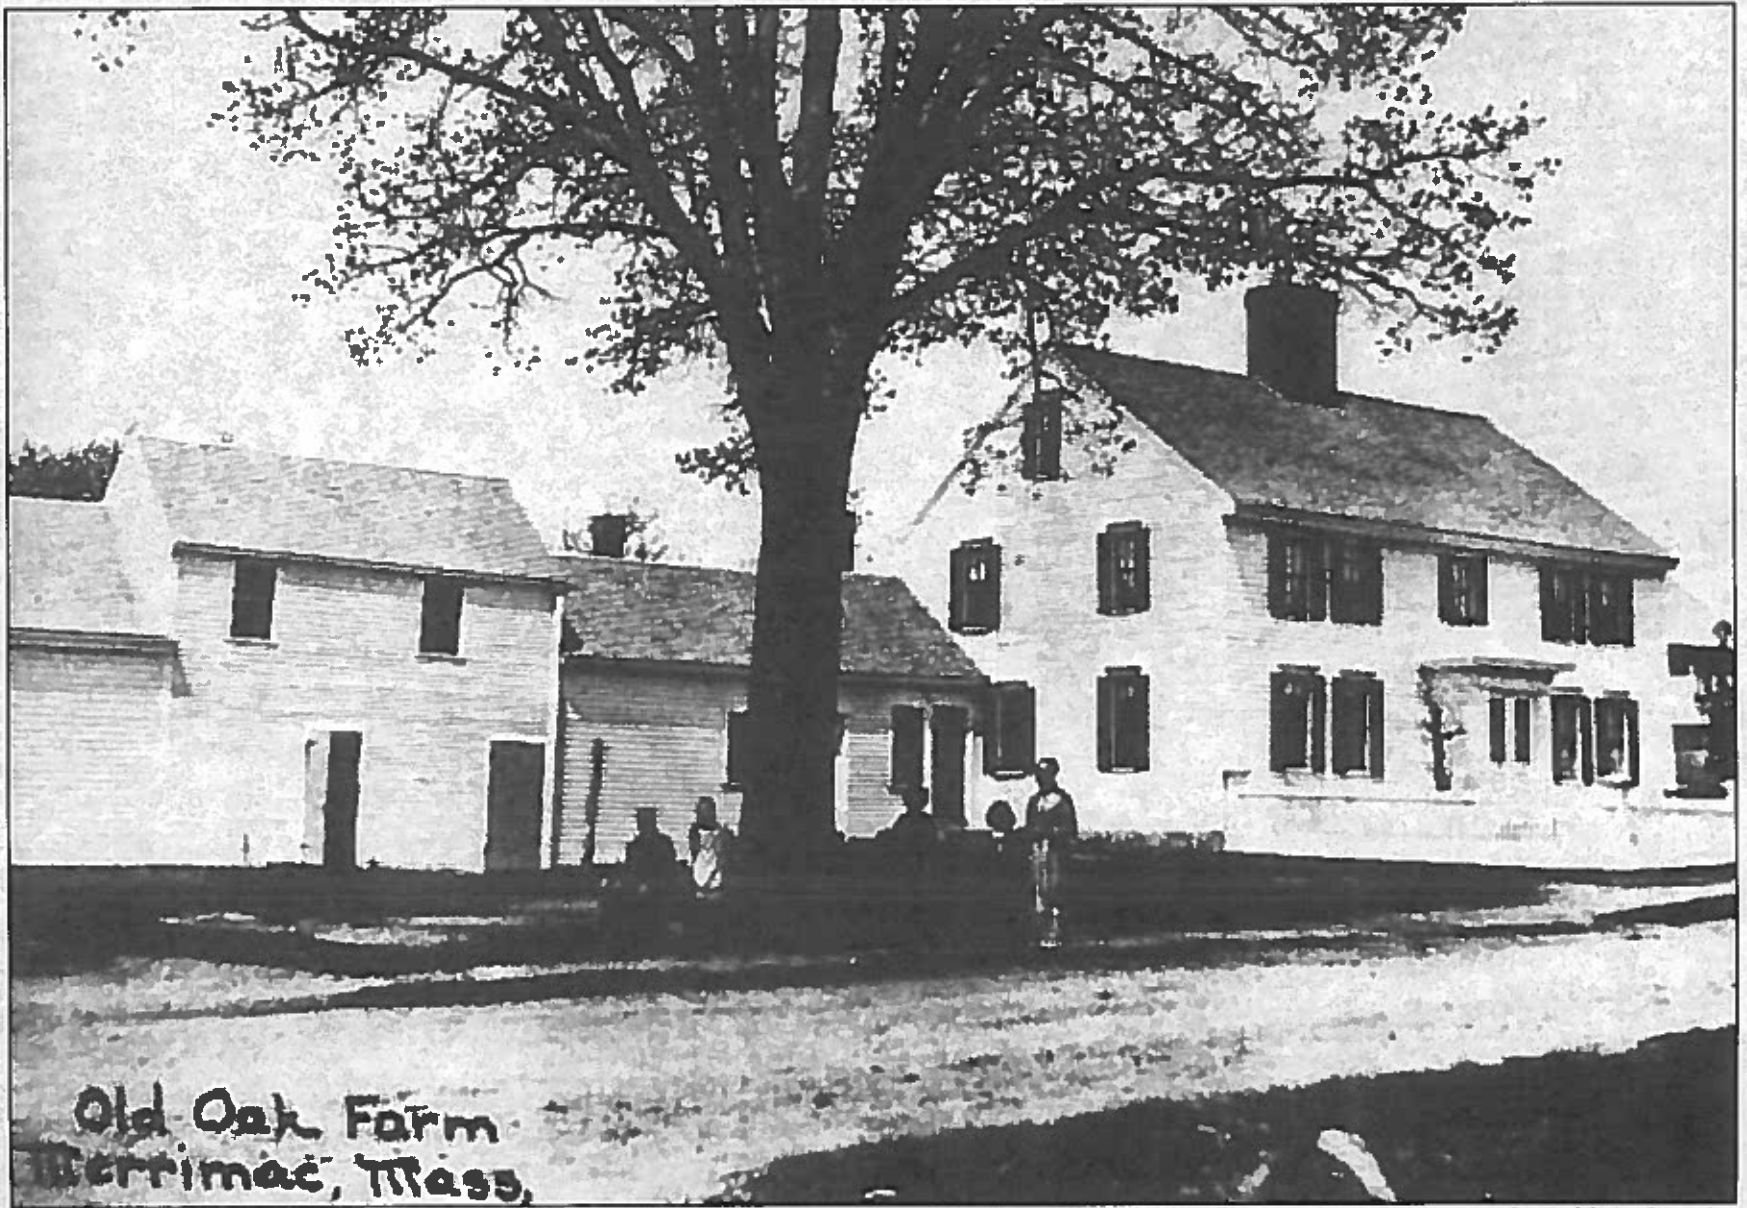

ANCESTORS

The chart on the opposite page has been taken from the original "Family Tree Chart" and shows the direct line of ancestors of Charles and Isabelle Waterhouse from 1600 when the families first appeared in this country.

The Waterhouse family name is one that was given to or taken by people who dwelt by the water. Earlier spelling of the name was Wattrous, Waterhous, etc. The present spelling of the name is found in this country as far back as the year 1630 A.D.

The Sargent family name dates back to approximately 4000 B.C. originating with King Sargon of Babylonia. Later names were Sargina, King of Assyria 722 B.C. The fourteenth century finds the name in Europe as Sargeannt, Sargentt, Sarjaunt, etc.

Direct migration of both families to the U.S. has been from England.

Old Oak Farm
Merrimac, Mass.

OLD OAK FARM

“Old Oak Farm” is located on Main Street and Bear Hill Road, one mile east of Merrimac, Mass. The house was built by the Sargent family in the year 1672 A.D. In this house, 28 Sargents (6 generations), and 10 children of the Waterhouse family were born.

It had come to the attention of the Waterhouse brothers — Sargent, Raymond, Harold and Charles (Osborne had passed on), that numerous family items had been stored in the attic of the farm house for many years. Since the interior of the house had been remodeled into three apartments which were then rented, it seemed wise from a safety standpoint to have the attic cleared.

At the reunion in 1971, which was held at the home of Barbara Burk Landers (wife of Ralph Landers) , each item was numbered on the list of articles which had been made a few years before by Raymond, and each member of the immediate family participated in a drawing. The family items included furniture, chests, tables, spinning wheels, dishes, pictures, cradles, jugs, clocks, picture frames, lanterns, silverware, tools, Civil War relics, churns, mortars, mirrors, books and records.

As Harold lived next door to the farmhouse, he solicited help in moving everything from the attic and placed the furnishings in his barn where someone from each family arranged to pick up the items each family had drawn. The large loom that was built into the rafters of the attic with the inscribed date of 1672 was dismantled and donated to the Historical Society on Main Street, Merrimac, where it was reassembled.

Old farm implements which were in the barn were given to the Town Hall Museum, Merrimac, Mass.

THE WATERHOUSE COMPANY

Charles L. Waterhouse, along with his son Osborne and two investors, founded the Waterhouse Company as a custom automobile body builder in Webster, Mass. in 1928. C.L. Waterhouse, Sr. previously had experience with the Judkins Company in Merrimac, was in charge of the trim department at Biddle and Smart in Amesbury, Mass., and was manager of the body repair and upholstery department for the Cadillac Distributor in Boston. The oldest son, Sargent joined the company later as manager of the interior trim and upholstery department.

The plan was to build custom bodies for the duPont Car, but while becoming established they received orders for small wooden boats, then turned to repair, repainting and reupholstering of car bodies as was the trend then for expensive cars. Beginning with a few orders from duPont, eventually orders were received from Packard, Lincoln, Chrysler and other makes. After only five years, business declined with the occurrence of the stock market crash and the depression which followed. However, the business was reorganized as the Dudley Manufacturing Company, continuing for several years making furniture, with Osborne and Sargent carrying on after Charles Sr. retired.

The company eventually became the Baumritter Company, then was taken over by Ethan Allen, Inc. with the Dudley Branch continuing under that name. The original factory still stands in Webster, Mass.

Charles Jr. while never connected with the Waterhouse Company, worked with the J.C. Cunningham Company of Rochester, New York, later joining the Art and Color section of General Motors, then Product Studies and finally the Styling and International Division of Ford Motor where he remained until retirement in 1964.

OBITUARY—WEBSTER TIMES

JUNE 7, 1953

The passing of Charles L. Waterhouse takes from our midst a gentleman who has contributed much to the industrial life of Webster, one who held a deep and sincere interest in every project for the community good.

Although not so active in recent years, he has kept in close touch with the business and civic affairs of the town to which he came more than a quarter of a century ago. He, with associates, founded the small custom automobile body business in the vacant industrial plant on Tracey Court because he believed in the future of Webster and its people and was convinced this was a good community in which to live and do business.

His foresight proved true, though the Waterhouse company is no longer engaged in its original production. During the war, all facilities of the concern were converted to war-time materials and were first in the area to win the coveted "E" award. Afterwards, under the guidance of its founder, the company not only changed to the manufacture of furniture exclusively, but moved to larger quarters, later becoming the Baumritter Company which is a branch of Ethan Allen Inc. of Danbury, Conn.

He was a member of Bethany Lodge A.F and A.M. of Merrimac, was past Noble Grand and a 50 year member of Riverside Lodge 100F, also of Merrimac. Affiliations in Webster included the Webster Rotary Club and Congregational Men's Club, having been past-president of both; Nokemos Chapter O.E.S. and Nipmuck District Boy Scouts of America of which he was past district chairman.

A kindly gentleman of the old school, with a good word and smile for everyone, Charles Waterhouse made a niche for himself in the community. He was active as an officer in many social and civic organizations, and participated in various endeavors for community welfare.

The town has lost a fine citizen, one of its staunchest supporters and a true gentleman.
